Briarcliff joins forces with Stevenson School

By DAVID LELAND

IN AN effort to allay fears once and for all, Carmel's troubled Briarcliff Academy has merged with Robert Louis Stevenson School in Pebble Beach.

The unification should be ample proof to area residents that Briarcliff will provide a stable academic environment long into the future, according to RLS Headmaster Joe Wandke.

"There continues to be this idea that the school is dead and not viable," Wandke said. "We wanted to put all this to rest."

"There continues to be this idea that the school is dead and not viable. We wanted to put all this to rest."
— Joseph Wandke

Known as Stevenson Lower (K-5) and Middle School (6-8).

The 23-member RLS school board approved the merger at its June 8 meeting.

The eight-member Briarcliff school board will stay in place for an "indefinite" period.

"In RLS giving the school its name it's saying 'we believe it's going to work.' I truly believe that also; I'm delighted."
— Rita Shugart

For legal reasons, Wandke said, but will have only limited powers.

Briarcliff has been the subject of rampant speculation and criticism since officials announced in January that the school would go to a year-round school year program.

The "Flexible Day — Extended Year" program will operate from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. 215 days a year, an increase of 171 days over the current schedule.

Teachers complained that they were not being treated fairly on an economic level and parents yanked their kids from the school because they believed they were not consulted on the implementation of the year-round schedule.

But despite several longtime instructors opting out of the small school by not signing contracts for the fall, Wandke said the institution has a full staff on board.

He added that he expects at least 100 students to be attending the school on Sept. 5, when the new school year begins.

Wandke said that he did not have current attendance figures, but they are meaningless at this point anyway.

"There's no question that the school's going to be there and it's going to operate efficiently," he said.

THE MERGING of the two schools ends a noble experiment began in 1981, when Allan and Rita Shugart purchased the former Carmel Woods School and renamed it Briarcliff Academy.

In 1988, the Shugarts decided Briarcliff, located on the outskirts of downtown Carmel, to RLS because the Shugarts believed the school would benefit from RLS' management expertise.

Rita Shugart praised RLS for its support. "In RLS giving the school its name it's saying 'we believe it's going to work,'" she said. "I truly believe that also; I'm delighted."

Wandke confirmed that RLS has operated on a financial surplus for the past five years, while paying off a million dollar-plus deficit. He predicted that Briarcliff will be making money again also in the not-too-distant future.

"There's obviously red ink there in the short run," he said of the school that needs at least 225 students to break even. "We have to turn that around — sooner rather than later."

He added that the Shugarts will continue providing financial support to the school — that will not be the job of RLS.

"We don't have to funnel money to support that school because of the generosity of the Shugarts," Wandke said.

He pointed out that, in equity alone, the three-acre parcel decided free and clear by the Shugarts means the school is not in trouble.

"We both believe in the school 100 percent," said Rita Shugart of her financial support. "We will continue as long as need be."

Wandke said tuition at Briarcliff will average $5,400 this year and will rise "near

UNDER THE new arrangement between Pebble Beach's Robert Louis Stevenson School and Carmel's Briarcliff Academy, inflation" the following year.

While some have speculated that RLS is attempting to bring in students from outside the peninsula in an effort to generate income through boarding fees, Wandke denied that.

"I have no thought of running a junior school boarding operation," he said. Currently 200 of the 500 students at RLS live in dormitories on the school grounds.

Rather than money, Wandke said RLS will be able to assist with facilities and program support.

Established in 1952, RLS has built a national reputation for excellence in college preparatory academies. In the last 10 years the school has produced more National Merit Scholars than any other similar school on the West Coast.

"Since our original charter intended the school to include elementary education, this is the perfect opportunity to extend the recognized excellence of the Stevenson

Rita Shugart will continue to lead financial support of Briarcliff while RLS offers it education expertise.

School to the earlier grades," Wandke said. Briarcliff students will now benefit from RLS' auditorium, athletic fields and chapel. Teachers from RLS will also provide enrichment courses at Briarcliff.

"We're not going to sacrifice the Stevenson reputation by doing a half-baked job," Wandke said.

Under the new arrangement, Wandke will oversee both schools.

Serving as head administrator at the new site, however, will be current Briarcliff Principal Chuck Johnston.

"With the recognized strengths of Stevenson, the new school can provide younger children with the same level of excellence that has made Stevenson a nationally recognized name in education," Johnston said.

Former Briarcliff admissions director Lois Fein will also be holding a similar position for the new Stevenson School, under longtime Stevenson admissions director Don Saluta.

Asbestos removal proves costly to financially weakened CUSD

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL UNIFIED School District officials are currently faced with the possibility of digging into their already sparse coffers to the tune of $160,000 over the next four years for asbestos removal in three schools.

That disheartening news comes in the wake of the CUSD being informed that it faces a deficit in this year's budget partly due to escalating employee health-care costs.

And while federal laws mandate that asbestos only be maintained, CUSD officials say that is not good enough.

"There's too much opportunity for damage," said Vance Baldwin, assistant superintendent of schools. "We're doing this for precautionary reasons."

The district has received 15 bids from contractors vying to remove some 47,000 square feet of blown-on acoustical ceiling material contained at Capt. Cooper Elementary, Carmel Middle School and Carmel High School.

The buildings involved include the following rooms:

- Music, art, shop, science, library cafeteria and unit H and I at the middle school.
- Rooms 1,2 and 3, office and girl's restroom at Capt. Cooper.
- Library building and Unit L at the high school.

Asbestos was used extensively for insulation until the early '70s, when it was found it could cause cancer.

Baldwin said that, because the majority of the CUSD was built prior to laws banning asbestos, the cleanup will be quite extensive.

"I think we're a little unusual in terms of the scope of the project," he said.

A contractor will be chosen on June 20, Baldwin said.

Alternatives

Dear Editor:

The concept of destroying a canyon and thousands of trees to speed traffic along for two mere miles is a travesty. We have a highway now, which with some designing, can serve the purpose of moving north-south traffic along non-stop.

For a fraction of the cost of this hideous proposed bypass, the present Highway 1 can be designed into a lovely scenic parkway, much as one sees in Europe and parts of our East Coast, in keeping with the atmosphere of Carmel:

- By widening Highway 1 from Rio Road to Carpenter to four lanes.
 - Rio Road and Carpenter Street overpasses.
 - An underpass for traffic entering the Valley Road, with a merge lane for north-bound traffic out of the Valley.
 - A median planted strip to prevent cross over traffic from side roads, including Ocean Avenue, onto the highway.
 - A pedestrian tunnel to accommodate the high school students across at Ocean Avenue.
 - A 35 MPH speed limit.
- Please consider this alternative before our unique environment is damaged permanently.

Grandiose schemes

Dear Editor:

One of the continuing amazements in the whole development versus conservation controversy is the Monterey County Board of Supervisors' slick political style in brushing off the conservationists. Having honed their all-purpose pose as "slow-growth" advocates to a fine art, enabling them to encompass their support for the Hatton Canyon Freeway monstrosity in their concept of slow growth, the supervisors have now approved another blight on the natural environment, a grossly misplaced mausoleum for the elderly called Carmel Valley Overview, adding 200 rental units to the valley's existing water hookups as we enter the third year of the central coast's drought.

Naturally, the supervisors expressed their "relief" at getting such an urgent construction project through for the elderly, if not for their construction industry backers, including the Democratic labor unions. If the supervisors are relieved, how could their constituents feel anything but relief over the addition of yet another old folks' home in the valley? Oh, the urgency of it all!

That just goes to show that even when the public won't tolerate any more of the board of supervisors' grandiose schemes for the development of Carmel Valley, the supervisors can always sneak through another Granny Park Barrel project to satisfy their political backers. Why, they seem to ask us, should they vote against Granny, when there's no money in conservation, anyway?

So, just as the water district board put off its vote on the water rights dispute until after midnight, protecting its chairman's vested interests, the board of supervisors lets the Pebble Beach Co. (and by proxy, the Coastal Commission), cut a fifth gate out of the forest without any vote at all. Some of them had better things to do than register their vote. (Read, the Pebble Beach Co. has money.) Now that's slick! Arrogant, but slick.

In fairness to your readers, what are the names of the members of the Board of Directors of the Carmel Residents Association who submitted the Guest Editorial which appeared in the Pine Cone June 1 and June 8 of 1989? We all know who didn't write it.

Over-reaction?

Dear Editor:

At long last I shall Wade out, grab an oar and Roe into those raging waters. If the Supremes decide that one's birthday is as much or more than nine months earlier than appears on one's driver's license, doesn't it consistently follow that eligibility for Social Security and such would automatically conform to the new pro-life style?

Wow! Wouldn't all those millions of early birthday candles set fire to the whole federal fiscal framework?

Or could I just be over-reacting?

Newberry was noble

Dear Editor:

"Perry Newberry was the Clint Eastwood of his time."????
Horsefeathers!

That's as ridiculous as saying "Mother Teresa was the Attila the Hun of her time." The only things they had in common were celebrity and mayorship.

People might be fascinated by Eastwood, but they respected and loved Perry. Ask anyone who knew him.

Perry never had his constituents rise up and form an organization against him.

As charmed as some writers may be with Eastwood, The Pine Cone has no right to disparage a gracious, noble and courteous man as Perry Newberry with someone who (while mayor), displayed public disdain for some of his fellow townspeople, and has even been sued by a married woman concerning their "fraternization."

Come on. We trust you to report history, not to twist it. If the Pine Cone continues to be so careless in this fashion, it will cease to be respected.

The price of mistrust

THE BIG Sur Land Trust's recent sale of 1,157 acres of forested land, formally known as Philo Lumber property, to the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District, fulfills our longstanding goal to protect the area's natural resources and to provide responsible management to care for the property in years to come. This goal has always been the fundamental purpose of the BSLT in any conservation transaction.

Curiously, this recent achievement has been met with protest from the very people who sought to stop redwood logging approved for the same property in 1983. Allegations in two lawsuits filed by the Canyon's Neighborhood Association against the park district and one against the Big Sur Land Trust present a myriad of concerns that are fueled not by legal merit, but rather, by mistrust and paranoia over issues entirely unrelated to the saving of this unique property.

Surprisingly, the old horse of "federalization" is being ridden again as a vehicle to taint and undermine the work of the land trust. The speculation is that BSLT is systematically acquiring Big Sur parcels to be turned over to Uncle Sam.

This is simply not true. In fact, our record proves quite the opposite. For example, since 1978, out of 45 conservation transactions preserving more than 7,110 acres in Monterey County, the land trust has pursued one transaction with a federal agency, the U.S. Forest Service, where 437 acres were purchased adjacent to the Ventana Wilderness Area. How can this single purchase be considered a conspiracy with the federal government?

With the Philo property, the land trust sought a local agency that could respond to management and use concerns effectively. The land trust did not seek participation with a federal agency.

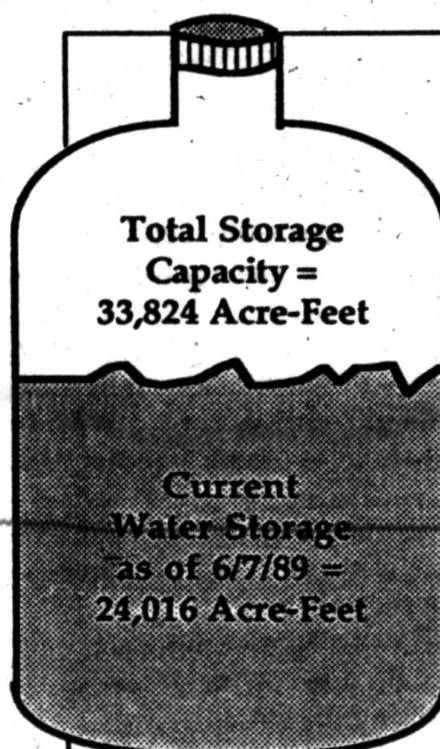

These claims, mixed with the cries of "federalization" and distorted with intentional misinformation, have caused unfounded controversy and led well-meaning people down the path of confrontation, litigation and waste. The costs of legal defense and what will be hundreds of hours of park district staff time will waste thousands of taxpayer dollars that otherwise could have been constructively used.

Canyon's Neighborhood Association wrongfully asserts that the decision to acquire this property was made secretly in smoke-filled back rooms. In fact, this acquisition was a grassroots movement started in 1983 when the property was destined for destruction by Philo Lumber Co. Since that time, the public has had the opportunity for continuous input at public meetings regarding the acquisition and use of the property as a preserve.

With upcoming public hearings on how the open space preserve is to be used, there will be additional opportunities to comment, clarify, and find solutions to concerns without resorting to litigation and other wasteful confrontation.

Do not be misled by naked accusations that are easy to make, but have no truth. The Big Sur Land Trust is dedicated, and will continue to be dedicated, to the local preservation of scenic and endangered land.

(Brian Steen is the executive director of the Big Sur Land Trust.)

Fight for control of water board just starting

By NANCY HILLS

AS THE time for candidates for the November election to sign up draws nearer, the struggle to control the policies of the water board intensifies.

In addition to the elections, the board is approaching decisions on the water allocation and production based on a draft environmental impact report/statement on the proposed dam as the peninsula continues at 20 percent rationing.

The district staff announced Monday that the community had saved 23 percent in May over last year, exceeding once again the 20-percent goal.

Water board meetings have occasionally crumbled into factionalism and bordered on name calling — of everything from each other to other agencies.

The most obvious demarcation between factions both on the board and in the audience is found between advocates of a water connection moratorium and those who oppose a moratorium.

Speakers during the public commentary period of water board meeting June 12 presaged upcoming political battles, switching between advocates and opponents of the district imposing a moratorium on new water meter connections until a new water supply project is completed.

Leading off the speakers was Pacific Grove City Councilman Bud Nunn. Nunn told the board that the Pacific Grove City Council had voted to request that the water board impose a moratorium on water meter connections until a new water supply is available.

The "present water supply is in doubt" and existing "residents are subjected to forced water rationing," Nunn read from the city resolution, and "continued overdrafting of existing aquifers will further damage the Carmel River environment."

Water director and mayor of Pacific Grove Morris Fisher explained to the board that the city did not want to impose a moratorium on itself while other cities were allowed to continue building.

Other speakers during the public comment period bounced between those for and against the moratorium.

Those against included Don Boston, an employee of Rancho Canada Golf Club (owned by water board chairman Nick Lombardo). Boston is also the chairman of the water district's Urban Water Committee and a Pacific Grove resident.

Boston objected to Pacific Grove's action, stating it moved the "policy debates" away from "openness and neighborliness" and stated that those demanding a moratorium are instilling fear in the peninsula "under the banner of environmentalism."

Boston said that the quality of life for those who make their living working the construction industry would be destroyed if a building moratorium is imposed. To impose it would be "economic bigotry," he said.

Some of the business the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board managed to conduct in between the political tug-of-war included:

- Changes to Phase III rationing rules so that businesses must in the future prove they have retrofit to low-flow fixtures before getting a variance. The variance allows businesses to use peninsula-wide average water use figures for their type of operation instead of reducing by 20 percent from their own consumption.

However, the changes also permit businesses that already have a variance to use 100 percent of their last year's consumption. The average water use figures, it has been found, give some businesses more water than they used prior to the drought.

The variance was intended to help businesses that had retrofit but still could not reduce consumption any more than it had the previous year.

When first imposed, the board did not require that businesses to prove they had retrofit.

This issue was one that generated a split in the board, with Monterey County 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, who is also a water district director, and director Dick Heuer voting against the revision.

Heuer said that it was an improvement on the previous plan but that it was still short of a good rationing plan. The average figures are so inaccurate, Heuer said, that they give more water than most need.

The peninsula is currently in Phase III rationing.

- Approved changes to the Carmel River irrigation program for river bank plants that will eliminate the "big gun" sprinkler and replace it a drip irrigation system.

- Accepted comments on the draft allocation environmental impact report.

- Debated another issue that revealed the differences in the board, though it eventually approved a "water supply budget" for the next three months. The budget outlines which wells will be pumped in the future and how much water will be taken from what aquifer or dam.

Strasser Kauffman argued against taking water from the upper Carmel Valley wells and said that the action should be given more environmental review than recommended by the staff. Strasser Kauffman was the only director to vote against the plan, though Heuer also voted against finding the environmental review adequate.

The Carmel River Steelhead Association also objected to the current water management plan, stating that it is killing the river environment and has destroyed many of the young plants and animals that need water in the spring.

- Voted to have an environmental review of proposals by private financial backers of a Carmel Sanitary District water reclamation plant. Applicants include the Pebble Beach Co. and two smaller Pebble Beach property owners. The environmental review includes a discussion on public funding for the plant.

- Discussed the Canada Reservoir and the proposed dams on the Carmel River. Director Paul Davis suggested that a review by Bechtel Engineering of the Canada Reservoir project include an analysis of private versus public ownership. The project is being sponsored by California-American Water Co.

During a discussion of the district's proposed Los Padres dam site, Fisher said that President (George) Bush needs to tell the Sierra Club and other environmental agencies to "go jump" and sign a bill that would allow the inundation of a small portion of the Ventana Wilderness.

Coastal Commissioners warned oil spills are imminent

By DAVID LELAND

ENVIRONMENTAL EXPERTS painted a bleak picture for state Coastal Commissioners this week, saying oil being transported off coastal waters is an accident looking for a place to happen.

'Nowhere in the world can anyone deal with that amount of oil in the water. There is no one answer that is effective — you will suffer damage eventually.'

— Dr. Kim McClennehan

To be more specific, statistics indicate that a massive oil spill is likely to occur every 15 years.

"The threat along the California coast is due to tankers, not offshore platforms," said Dr. Kim McClennehan of the state Fish and Game Department.

He added that most of the 750 million barrels of oil a year taken from Alaskan waters is hauled down the California coast in tankers and supertankers.

Moreover, even if the state was fully prepared for such a catastrophe — which it certainly is not — there would still be irrevocable damage.

As an example, McClennehan cited the recent oil spill in Prince William Sound, Alaska in March of this year.

"Nowhere in the world can anyone deal with that amount of oil in the water," he said, referring to the 11 million gallons of oil which spilled from the tanker Exxon Valdez. "There is no one answer that is effective — you will suffer damage eventually."

Coastal Commissioners heard the pessimistic testimony this week during a workshop in Monterey, the first time the commission has met on the peninsula in more than four years.

While Monday's gathering centered on the Alaskan oil spill and how such an accident could affect the state, the remainder of the week's meetings centered on more traditional business.

Coastal Commissioners also heard grim first-hand testimony on the wide range of negative effects concerning a massive oil spill from Dennis Kelso, commissioner of the Alaska Department of Environmental Conservation.

"I can assure you that it is not just Alaska's oil spill," said Kelso, adding that many of the animals that have been damaged take refuge in federal parks. "That point was crystalized for me when I saw an American bald eagle flapping matted, oiled wings in a vain attempt to get airborne."

Kelso also told the commission that, because Exxon is offering more money to clean the oil from rocks than wages given for traditional jobs, life has changed in Alaska.

He cited the crime rate soaring by 700 percent, people living on the streets, and native Alaskans unable to digest "foreign" food that has replaced the clams, herring eggs and other local seafood they are used to.

ARMED WITH the knowledge of what does not work regarding the transportation of oil, Kelso advised the commission on how California could cut down its chances of an oil spill.

For one thing, he said, it should be up to the government to write a contingency plan in case of accident.

Currently, the oil industry writes its own contingency plans nationwide.

"The point is, you shouldn't have to wait for the responsible party to either act or fail before government response can go into action," Kelso said.

Kelso also took aim at unsophisticated tanker design, poor radar and navigational aids that invite oil spills.

"The Exxon Valdez hit a well-charted, well-lighted reef; it wasn't the ship's officers alone who messed up," he said. "There ought to be better ways to transport a small sea of toxic product."

Kelso also faulted the U.S. Congress for supporting the idea that oil companies can police themselves and limiting their financial responsibility to citizens.

He referred to pending legislation called the Oil Pollution Liability Act, authored by Congressman Lloyd Jones of North Carolina and amended by Congressman Norman Shumway of California.

"Quite frankly, it ought to be called the Oil Polluters' Protection and Liability Limitation Act," he said. "It's as if Congress were now pouring a quart of 10-40 down our throats."

In addition to restricting a citizen's ability to collect damages from oil spills, the bill preempts states from using their own resources to clean up oil spills.

In an effort to clean up the Exxon oil spill, the state of Alaska used $60 million of its own money.

Kelso said the Coast Guard should be the lead agency in any oil spill cleanup.

LOCALLY, THE Monterey County Board of Supervisors has taken the issue of oil transportation into its own hands.

This month the board formed the Monterey County Oil Spill Contingency Plan Task Force.

In addition to board members Karin Strasser Kauffman and Marc Del Piero, the task force includes representatives from PG&E, Elkhorn Slough Foundation and a retired oil tanker captain.

The goal is to review PG&E's current plan for transporting oil at its Moss Landing Facility.

"We know it's inadequate," said Strasser Kauffman. "We need to take a look at the whole likelihood of disaster that would result from an oil spill."

Strasser Kauffman said she does not trust the oil companies whatsoever.

"Their promises cannot be kept," she said. "We cannot rely on the guarantees of the oil companies."

She said the recommendations of the task force will be presented to the board of supervisors during a public hearing.

The commission was also told during the workshop that the state needs to construct two facilities to treat sea otters in case of an oil spill.

The one positive effect to the Alaskan oil spill is that now people know how devastating an accident can be.

Point Sur facelift being opposed

By DAVID LELAND

A SEEMINGLY benign project proposed by the state Parks and Recreation Department has met with resistance from Big Sur residents.

At hand is a $345,000 facelift of the parking area for those touring Point Sur State Historic Park.

Currently people wait in their cars on Highway 1 for a park ranger, and are then led down toward the lighthouse caravan-style where the tours begin.

Under plans proposed by the state, however, 600 feet of road will be paved off Highway 1 leading into seven acres of state-owned property, accommodating between 12 and 15 cars. The dirt shoulder area on the highway will also be paved.

And while state officials say safety is of prime concern, Mike Caplin, representing the Coast Property Owners, said he feared an influx of tourists if the tours expand.

The issue surfaced last week during a meeting of the Big Sur Multi-Agency Council at Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park.

The Big Sur Multi-Agency Council meets quarterly and is composed of federal, state and local agencies for the purpose of making recommendations on proposed projects contained in the Big Sur Coast Land Use Plan.

Caplin suggested the Parks Department keep a low-key profile with the tours, and attempt to work with the U.S. Navy at Point Sur Naval Facility to allow parking on federal property.

The Parks Department currently conducts two tours weekly, which can service up to 90 people. Five tours a week are planned for the summer months.

State Park Ranger Jim "Tex" Ritter said he believed that, with the future of the naval

Secret water meetings are just the sign of the times

By NANCY HILLS

WHEN WATER board chairman Nick Lombardo asked a reporter for The Carmel Pine Cone to leave a private political meeting at his Rancho Canada Golf Club Friday noon, it was just a sign of the times.

The election for two water board directors is still six months away, but the political hugger-mugger on all sides has already started.

The Pine Cone reporter, before host Nick Lombardo became aware of her presence and graciously escorted her out the door, noted about 40 to 50 primarily business people seated around tables having lunch. In attendance were water board directors Paul Davis and Billy DeBerry.

Lombardo said later that they conducted no water board business and that it was an unofficial group called together to discuss the elections and water problems. The press had not been invited in order to allow people to speak freely.

As for the attendants being primarily business people, "There is nothing wrong with that," Lombardo said. "We were there to discuss economics of the community and economics is the business side of things."

Lombardo is one of two water board directors whose seat is up in November. He is strongly pro-business, a supporter of the hostelry industry, and has always been an advocate of a dam on the Carmel River. Lombardo was elected to a four-year term in 1985 and has been the focal point of controversy since he became chairman two years ago.

Lombardo said that he will not announce whether he will run again until at least the filing date.

The latest and most hotly argued controversy is a water rights agreement between the district and Lombardo as one of six private pumpers with water rights protests filed with the state.

DeBerry is the other director whose seat will be up for election.

DeBerry planned not to run but changed his mind after he was angered by the actions of other directors, which he has not named but is most likely director Dick Heuer.

Heuer has spearheaded the campaign against the water rights agreement and has called for a moratorium on water rights connections. Others have begun to take up the cause.

Heuer partially based his call for a moratorium on an uncertified draft environmental impact report on the water supply system which states the least environmentally damaging water production level is below current use.

A draft is a draft report, DeBerry has said, which means it is subject to change. To base decisions before it is certified smacks of politicizing, he charged.

But his official statement is that, "I feel the that I still have a job to do."

THE INVITATION to the private meeting read "Water Crisis on the Monterey Peninsula."

"Is this the end of all business activity?" the flier asked along with "Stricter rationing. Will your interests be represented?"

The Pine Cone received a copy in the mail with no return address.

The most pointed reference in the flier was in a section called "Elections in November for two seats on the water board."

"Will we return to the 'water hyacinth' and 'cistern' mentality for solutions or make progress on a true solution, a dam and/or reservoir?" it read.

A letter asking for assistance and attendance at the June 9 meeting ended with "We will be addressing the issues and discussing an action plan to assure the successful election of the right candidates who will continue the battle and carry forward the true solutions for an adequate water supply."

The meeting is just one of the many activities starting in conjunction with the upcoming election.

The "other" side is also beginning to get its ducks in order and is getting together a petition to ask for a moratorium on new water connections.

Lombardo had obtained copies of the petition and had them available for the perusal of his guests.

The candidates who will "oppose" Lombardo and DeBerry are still in the process of selection, but names bandied about include Bob Russell, a former Pacific Grove City Councilman and chairman of the former Coalition to Get a Dam; Pat Bernardi, former water board member; and Dale Hekhuis, former chairman of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club.

Each queen is backed by a sponsor and both candidates and sponsors will be busily engaged between now and July 31 in the selling of tickets to gain extra "bonus" points counting toward the final judging of the winning candidate.

Other factors in the judging will include appearance, poise, personality, speaking ability, and proficiency in preparing a 500-word statement on why the candidate likes living in Carmel Valley. Tickets sell for $1 each with all proceeds going to defray expenses of the Centennial celebration.

Candidates for queen are Desiree Celli, 15, freshman at Carmel High School, sponsored by Carmel Valley Market; Amy Lambert, 15, Carmel High School, sponsored by the Jamesburg community; Sherri Leinenbach, 15, Pacific Grove student, sponsored by New York Life Insurance Co.-Bat Cassano; Kimberley Pullman, 16, Carmel High School, sponsored by Porter-Marquard;

A variety of prizes will be offered holders of tickets, the winners to be chosen in ceremonies at Community Center on Sunday, Aug. 6. The grand prize will be a week's stay in a Kauai, Hawaii, condominium donated by Steve and Kay Thigpen, Carmel Valley residents and owners of Rapid Printers in Monterey. Free air transportation for two will be provided. Other prizes are being arranged.

Valley residents interested in helping with the queen contest and the coronation ball to be held Friday night, Aug. 4, are invited to call Sandra Clough at 659-2411. Long rebuilding process begins for tennis ranch

WITH MORE than 40 years of memories turned into ashes as the result of fire, John and Monique Gardiner will be forced this year to only dream about summers gone by.

The blaze in the clubhouse at John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch in Carmel Valley began at 1:26 a.m. on June 8 and was extinguished by 2:07 a.m., but not before 42 years of tennis memorabilia was lost.

"It doesn't erase your memory, but it erases the tangibility," said Monique Gardiner, referring to items such as John Gardiner posing with tennis great Bill Tilden, oil paintings and antique tennis rackets.

The fire, which destroyed the clubhouse, caused more than $500,000 in damages, Gardiner said.

The result: no kitchen facilities to prepare the gourmet meals the tennis ranch has become famous for.

The Gardiners plan to reopen their tennis ranch in the spring of 1990.

In the interim, notables who make pilgrimages to the famous resort are sending condolences.

"Merv Griffin called last week," Gardiner said. "He was devastated — he and Eva Gabor were here the week before."

Other luminaries paying respects include noted sports doctor Robert Albo, and senators Bennett Johnson and Lloyd Bentsen.

Gardiner also owns tennis ranches in Scottsdale and Sedona, Ariz.

When the fire occurred, he was in San Diego County, where the Gardiners are building a 40-suite tennis facility.

Monique Gardiner said that the children's tennis camp, which has been taking place for 32 years, will still be held this summer, however.

AS THE result of a blaze that caused $500,000 in damages, John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch in Carmel Valley will be closed un-

part of Pancho Carter's Indy 500 racing team this year.

Carmel man in pits at Indy 500

CARMEL RESIDENT John Kirchenbauer has returned from the Indianapolis 500 with as much enthusiasm for auto racing as when he left for duty.

The Memorial Day classic saw Kirchenbauer sweating it out in the pits, a job he has been performing for the past 12 years.

Never mind that his employer, Pancho Carter, came in 22nd in a field of 32, Kirchenbauer enjoyed every second of the action.

"I just love the industry, the sport and the people I work with," says the Carmel building contractor.

A volunteer Carmel fireman and a member of the Carmel Youth Center board of directors, Kirchenbauer served on a team of 12 men and women that could change four tires and gas-up Carter's car with 30 gallons in a mere 14 seconds.

Kirchenbauer has other talents — he also built and designed the General Store restaurant.

The Indy 500 is one of 16 races in the Indy Car World Series, which conducts races across the United States.

For Kirchenbauer, who previously drove Formula race cars in the United States and Europe, working with Carter's team provides a way to keep up with current racing trends.

"I like to maintain my knowledge of racing and to create better race cars — and, consequently, safer automobiles," he says.

With that in mind, Kirchenbauer travelled to Indianapolis in the beginning of May to work 15-hour days attempting to trim critical seconds off of Carter's time.

Carter, whose team is sponsored Hardee's restaurant chain, qualified for Indy 500 at 214 mph.

R-4 zone specific plan 'inappropriate' says EIR

A PROPOSED specific plan for the R-4 district makes an "inappropriate transition" between the commercial and residential districts, according to an environmental impact report.

The draft report, compiled by Denise Duffy & Associates, is now available at the Carmel Planning Department at city hall.

The EIR analyzes the impact of a draft specific plan which recommends 66 units per acre for the Junipero Avenue portions of the zone and allows for new commercial uses.

The density should be no greater than 44 units per acre and no new commercial uses should be allowed, the report states, to mitigate the impact of development on the city.

Several different Carmel Planning Commissions have worked on zoning regulations for the area, and the last proposal was a specific plan developed in 1986 and 1987.

When first released, the specific plan sparked a storm of opposition, led by residents in one of the surrounding neighborhood.

The overwhelming interest forced a move of the planning commission meetings on the issue into larger quarters at Sunset Center.

The Northeast Carmel Neighbors Association distributed a petition against the specific plan and later championed the city's purchase of the largest piece of developable property in the district.

That was the Thomas Handley property, then the site of the Hayward Lumber Co., which the city acquired for about $2.5 million late December 1988.

Now that the city has purchased the biggest piece of property in the district, only one major site is left for development in the zone.

That is the Murphy property at Fourth and Junipero avenues. Owner Bob Murphy has plans for an apartment complex on the location.

The report states that to minimize the feeling of one large complex, the buildings should have different designs and coloring.

The report also analyzes different public uses for the Handley property.

A park or parking lot are the least environmentally impacting uses, while an underground garage, a use that has been suggested, is one of the most intrusive.

The report also states that any buildings erected on what is now called the Torres Street property (Handley) should be constructed so that they avoid blocking the view from Torres Street and Third Avenue of Point Lobos and the ocean.

Planners to review changes to design review June 21

By NANCY HILLS

THE CARMEL Planning Commission will review its recommendations for residential district code changes next week before sending them on to the city council in July.

The report will outline the commissioners debate over how to control house designs and what many residents perceive as unwelcome changes in the residential district.

The commission meeting will begin at 3 p.m. Wednesday, June 21 in Carmel City Council Chambers, but the discussion on the residential district will begin at 4:30 p.m.

As real estate prices in Carmel continue to rise, houses are growing larger and more double lots are being fully used for two homes instead of one.

The commission has been divided on whether to impose more stringent numerical, fixed requirements or to leave the code as it is and employed stricter design review on applications.

Over the past few months, the commission has frequently tackled the problem but found that it could not come to a unanimous agreement on the issue.

Commission chairwoman Carla Ramsey said that though the commission has almost completed its report, citizens who wish to speak will be welcome.

"The report can be amended," she said.

The commissioners finally decided to include both arguments in its report. The council will review the commission's findings at its July 11 meeting.

Issues in the report include:

- Changing the allowed setbacks. The commission voted 4-3 to require varying setbacks between houses and property lines in an attempt to avoid a tunnel effect between many homes.

Currently, the city requires 3-foot setbacks from the property line.

Also, no eaves should overhang a 3-foot setback limit.

- All second-story homes should have a design review.

- A sliding scale for permitted floor area should be inversely related to the size of the lot. The larger the lot the less percentage of building coverage will be allowed.

- Reduce the maximum building site coverage from 60 percent to 50 percent.

- No square foot bonus for adding courtyards or landscaping. Those should be required.

- Landscaping plans must be submitted as well as outdoor lighting plans.

- Additional information about the building in relation to adjoining properties. That information can be a photomontage, model or some schematic that demonstrates the proposed design's impact on the surrounding environment.

- Basements will not be counted as floor area.

IN OTHER agenda items, the commission will continue its discussion on prohibiting new condominiums in Carmel.

The city council requested the commission investigate the pros and cons of banning condominiums after a discussion about the intention of the general plan language.

Councilmember Ken White sent a memo to the commissioners outlining some of his concerns about condominiums.

His concerns revolve around the elimination of new affordable apartments if builders are permitted to build condominiums.

"Why would any property owner want to build apartments and recoup a return on an investment over a long period of time through monthly rental payments when, by selling condominiums, all monies (and profits) can be recouped quickly (by selling them)?" White wrote.

He used the proposed R-4 Murphy property project, an apartment complex at the corner of Junipero and Fourth avenues, as an example.

"For many years through the planning process, he was told that condominiums were not permitted. Is he now being given a different message?" White added.

Former planning commission chairman Olof Dahlstrand responded with his own memo.

"There is no evidence presented so far in this discussion to show that condominiums are anything but a useful, desirable form of multiple housing," Dahlstrand responded.

base in question, it would be imprudent to enter into an agreement with it.

But Rep. Leon Panetta, Multi-Agency Council vice chairman, said he would enter into talks with the Navy in an attempt to limit the scope of the state project.

"History tells us that once you begin this sort of project it will expand," Panetta said.

A California Highway Patrol spokesman at last week's meeting told the council that there was no history of accidents at the site.

State officials say they are merely following a general plan for Point Sur State Historic Park, which is scheduled for a 1992 completion.

And while county Planning Director Bob Slimmon told the council that state plans were contained in the Big Sur LUP, he said no permit for the work has been filed with the county.

Fifth District Supervisor and Chairwoman Karin Strasser Kauffman encouraged the state to meet with adjacent property owners to keep them abreast of developments.

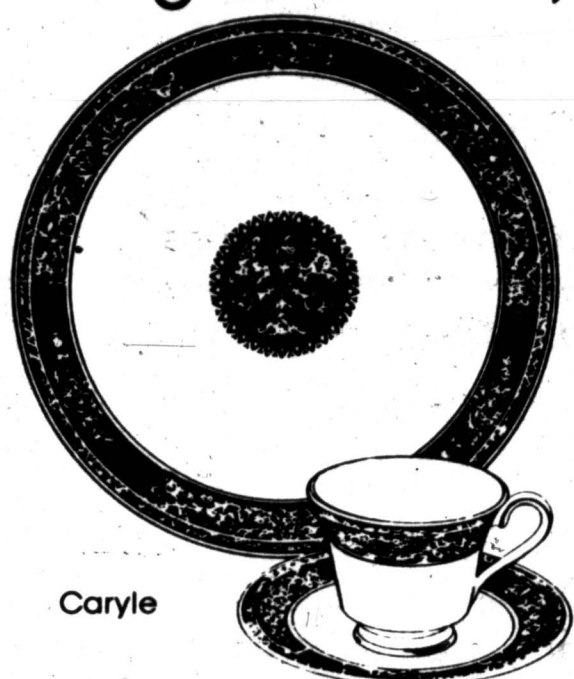

She also told the project's architect, Norm Kucala, to meet with the county for a "pre-application" conference.

Slimmon said the application process, once initiated, would take about three or four months.

Ritter said the improvements are not being made in anticipation of more cars, but to better serve visitors currently visiting the area.

"We're under pressure right now," he said. "We're not meeting the need now."

Asbestos removal proving costly

Baldwin lamented the recent failure of a parcel tax for the CUSD, which would have levied $80 a year for four years on each parcel within the district.

"This is one thing that the parcel tax would have funded," he said.

Currently the state has allotted $200,000 toward the project, but Baldwin said that figure is probably unrealistic.

He added that, with some contractors calculating disposal of asbestos at $15 per square foot, the figure for the entire project could rise to as high as $705,000.

"Our chances of getting that ($705,000) are slim," he said. "Because the state has a $13 million backlog and applications have already been submitted."

Baldwin said the district has the option of applying to the state for increased funding, and will remove a portion of the material while awaiting results.

With the CUSD's philosophy of preventing accidents rather than reacting to them, time is of the essence.

"We have to (remove it) or we're going to be taking classrooms out of operation," he said. "We can't do that."

While the areas containing asbestos are not unhealthy to students and personnel, any kind of damage to the material could release harmful asbestos fibers and present a potential health hazard, Baldwin said.

As examples of potential accidents that could cause damage he cited fire, earthquake, vandalism and water damage.

ASSUMING THAT the district only attempts a partial asbestos cleanup, the task still presents a logistical nightmare.

For example, all goods stored in a classroom must be removed so workers can clear the area of asbestos.

For some rooms, such as the shop at the middle school, where lumber and large equipment is stored, that job becomes even more tedious.

Baldwin said the CUSD is in the process of renting large cargo containers to put goods in while a room is being cleaned.

"It's going to be a real logistical problem," he said.

Along with presenting a logistical problem, with work planned for July and August, Baldwin said time will also be working against the district.

Several contractors have suggested full crews working 24 hours a day seven days a week.

Still, after the asbestos is removed, new insulation must be sprayed on, which requires even more time.

Baldwin added that new federal legislation now mandates schools to remove non-friable (non-lethal) asbestos.

The district is currently preparing a management plan, and estimates that the general fund will suffer between $20,000 and $30,000 in that cleanup.

1940-43: War overtakes sleepy town of Carmel

(Editor's note: This year the Carmel Pine Cone is celebrating its 75th anniversary, continuing our tradition as the oldest newspaper on the Monterey Peninsula. Our Diamond Jubilee Year series takes a look at the history of Carmel as seen through the pages of the Pine Cone over three quarters of a century.)

Chapter 9: 1940-41-42-43

"Telephone Carmel 2"

By RAY MUNGO

AMID WIDESPREAD panic and reports that enemy Japanese submarines were about to attack Carmel on the beach at Point Lobos, the Second World War overtook the sleepy village of Carmel by the Sea and its proud weekly, the Pine Cone. The world went mad, but the paper survived and changed its name to the Pine Cone-Cymbal after buying out its principal competitor.

The 1940s decade opened quietly enough in Carmel, although there were ominous warning signs from Europe, where Hitler was overtaking his neighbors. The U.S. was still neutral, and the concerns of the village were mostly local. Marjory Lloyd took over the Pine Needles feature ("telephone Carmel 2 with your news and parties"), and kept everyone abreast of the comings and goings of local celebrities, ordinary citizens, their children and pets. Yes, pets.

The village had always been divided into "cat people" and "dog people" and numerous ordinances were passed in futile attempts to control feline and canine behavior. A Jan. 6, 1940 editorial deplored the fact that Carmel's cats considered themselves "above the law" and dogs—notably "Pal," the village mutt—had free run of the place.

On Feb. 2, the paper celebrated its 25th anniversary with the observation that "the first issue of the Carmel Pine Cone was published...at the same time the German Empire was beginning a submarine blockade of Great Britain. Today...Germany is blockading with submarines the ports of Great Britain again... In those 25 long years things of great moment have happened in the world. Old values have disappeared. Old idols have been smashed. Old standards have been lowered..."

"But you won't find those world shaking changes reported in the Pine Cone. Casually, gently, the Pine Cone has changed little with the passing of time. The old lady isn't as slim and graceful as she once was. But she's a good cook and she's not out playing bridge and drinking cocktails 'til all hours of the night," wrote editor Archibald MacPhail.

Some two months later, on April 19, MacPhail published the commemorative special 25th anniversary edition of the paper, after apologizing for his tardiness. "Village Keeps on Growing, May be City of 10,000 by '50," the headline trumpeted.

Tributes were composed by Dora Hagemeyer, William L. Overstreet (founder of the paper in 1915), Una Jeffers (Robinson Jeffers' wife), Richard L. Masten (poet, author of the "As the Crow Fries" column, and father of Palo Colorado Canyon poet Ric Masten), Hal Garrott, George Sterling, and other worthies. An editorial looked forward to the next 25 years in Carmel;

"Carmel can still get along without street numbers and street lights and with comparatively few of the bothersome things of other towns and cities... With as little change as possible, Carmel can continue to be the best and most beautiful place you ever saw. The Pine Cone wants it that way and is going to fight for it that way."

BUT MACPHAIL gave way to new owner Carlos Drake, whose father owned the two largest hotels in Chicago, in the July 5, 1940 issue. Drake was a regular contributor to The Transatlantic Review in Paris and a member of a famous circle of expatriate writers including Hemingway, James Joyce, e. e. cummings and Ezra Pound. The Pine Cone never printed the true details of its many changes in ownership, but between the lines and in scattered commentaries it becomes obvious that the paper was struggling.

Drake, for example, lasted less than a year until needing financial help from Allen Griffin, owner of the dreaded Herald over the hill. Griffin contributed a "Note to Pine Cone Readers" Feb. 3, 1941 indicating he rescued the paper from bankruptcy for the good of Carmel.

And on March 6, 1942, Drake became the latest casualty of Pine Cone ownership when he ceded the paper to Clifford H. Cook and his wife, Wilma. The Cooks were printers and owners of the Pine Cone Press, a separate entity, which printed the paper and, one suspects, may have been owed back printing fees.

The Cooks editorialized a lot less than previous Pine Cone publishers, leaving the editorial page to poetry and essays by contributors, but they were perhaps more businesslike, less artistic. They managed to buy up the competing Cymbal on June 12, just three months after acquiring the Pine Cone, and boasted of exceeding the Herald's circulation in Carmel.

shadow over the village in an electrifying sequence of events. At 4:45 p.m. on Dec. 11, 1941, "Carmelites were startled into action when the fire siren shrieked its four blast warning for five minutes. It was the village's first taste of total blackout," the Pine Cone reported.

Streets were cleared of traffic immediately and all inhabitants were ordered by police to take cover in their homes. "Under cover of darkness from somewhere came the orders that Carmel was to be evacuated. Certain precinct captains ordered members of their precincts to leave immediately for Monterey...and small boys ran down the streets shouting the word to clear out. At least 15 or 20 people...left Carmel," the report continued.

The Mission Ranch was evacuated of its bar patrons and diners in the restaurant. Some of them headed out Carmel Valley Road. One rumor around town had it that only a thousand-foot strip of waterfront was to be evacuated; another claimed there were five Japanese battleships off Santa Cruz, "while still another claimed there was a major sea engagement going on 150 miles from San Francisco. Most fantastic were the claims of actual invasion of Carmel, and bombers directly overhead."

The town went to war in a big way. Needless telephone calls at night were prohibited. Everyone got civil defense instructions and began rationing gas and sugar. The local young men enlisted and signed up for the draft, and the Pine Cone lead story each week brought reports from the front and heartbreaking stories of sons and brothers killed in action.

"Jap Subs Attack Off Carmel Highlands," the headline screamed on the day after Christmas, 1941. "One sub was sighted a short distance off Point Lobos and golfers on the Cypress Point and Pebble Beach courses saw the Japanese attack on the tanker, Aginworld, off Cypress Point. The tanker, switching back and forth under fire of the sub's deck guns, kept its stern toward the circling raider... Thanks to the captain's quick maneuverings, the Aginworld reached Santa Cruz unharmed. Whether it seems possible or not, they are out there in our beautiful water and trying mighty hard to take possession."

Indeed, it doesn't seem possible. But as actress Lillian Gish was quoted as saying, there was "a panic on the West Coast." Carmel was completely swept up in the hysteria. The ladies organized for the Red Cross, the Boy Scouts prepared to defend the town, the paper was printed in blue ink to honor the Navy, and even the venerable and hugely successful Carmel Bach Festival was canceled in 1943 due to war restrictions. Paper shortages forced the Pine Cone to slim down to eight pages on cheap stock. The following poem was submitted by one of our overseas boys Oct. 2, 1942:

*I killed a man in No Man's Land
I had not met before;
Save he was from the other camp—
Of him I knew no more.*

*Say that I fought for Motherland.
Say anything you can:
Say I'm a hero, noble, brave
But add—I killed a man.*

WAR MADE strange allies and bedfellows. Richard Criley of the Carmel Highlands, who was once declaimed by the Pine Cone as a member of the notoriously Communist John Reed Club, became a military hero in its pages. He became Second Lt. Criley and wrote from the invasion of Sicily of "having to make speeches from the steps of city halls to quell mobs of hungry and needy people."

"Everywhere we were greeted as liberators and friends and, as representatives of the allies, were guests of honor everywhere. It is encouraging to see just how weak Fascism really is," Criley wrote in the Pine Cone-Cymbal for Sept. 24, 1943, quoted from a letter to his mother. The paper faithfully printed all news from servicemen to their families.

Few local controversies could distract Carmel's attention from the awful business of war. Somebody stole the head of Johann Sebastian Bach from a Bufano sculpture during the 1942 Carmel Bach Festival, however, and the story made it all the way to Time magazine. Columnist Phil Nesbitt wrote about the incident, including many strange rumors of what had become of the head, and the F.B.I. even got involved. There are differing versions of the Bach head story lingering in the village today.

THE ONLY news to overshadow the war in the 1943 Pine Cone-Cymbal was the death of Pal at 7:15 a.m. on Dec. 9. Pal was more than just a dog, he was "Carmel's beloved canine mascot." His death at age 14 was the lead story on page one, and his life was completely chronicled.

"Perhaps no other dog ever entwined himself more deeply into the affections of an entire community than huge, lumbering, tawny coated Pal, with his mixed heritage of airdale, English bull and a touch of Great Pyrenees," Irene Alexander wrote. Born in Sparks, Nev., Pal was brought to Carmel in 1929 and promptly became the Town Dog. He was a "Public Character" of Carmel.

He was fed by all, and water bowls were left out for him along the streets. When he was caught by the Monterey dogcatcher, the Carmel Boy Scouts raised his bail. He received letters at the village post office addressed to "Pal of Carmel." He was written up in the national magazine Tailwaggers.

When Pal was still on his deathbed, the Carmel City Council met and voted unanimously that "this well loved dog should be buried in the grounds of the Forest Theater, his grave marked by a memorial stone. Then, as individuals, the councilmen started a fund to defray the cost of Pal's tombstone...Pal was laid to rest under a lofty pine beside the path leading into the Forest Theater, where every passerby will read his name..."

Dinosaurs make frightful appearance in PG museum

By ANNE PAPINEAU

THE PACIFIC Grove Museum of Natural History's contribution to the Pacific Grove Centennial is a collection of creatures that predate the town by 70- to 150-million years, give or take a century.

Seven dinosaurs, the likes of which haven't been spotted near here since sometime in the Mesozoic Era, have found temporary shelter in the museum located at Forest and Central avenues. "Dinosaurs Alive" will remain on display at the Pacific Grove institution through Aug. 31.

This is no silent gathering of bones or paleontologist's renderings of extinct beings. "Dinosaurs Alive" is made up of moving, bellowing dinosaurs, through the magic of — not Disney — but Dinamation. The magnificent seven are corralled in two large rooms and seem so alive it's too bad they're can't be let out once in a while to run to Lover's Point and back.

"This exhibit has had the largest participation from volunteers in the history of the museum," observed Paul Finnegan, assistant curator. "I could name 15 organizations that have assisted and never worked with us before."

If the museum has been converted into a dinosaur ranch, then Finnegan is its foreman. "Hayward Lumber of Pacific Grove supplied two men and a forklift when the dinosaur truck arrived," he recalled. "The Tyrannosaurus (tyrant lizard) was supposed to go in the main room, but he just wouldn't fit. And the hump of the Brontosaurus (also known as Apatosaurus 'deceptive lizard') had to be cut to fit it through the door."

But all cuts are scheduled to be healed for the public viewings of "Dinosaurs Alive." The Pacific Grove showing is the first Central Coast appearance by these technological wonders, which are spawned by Dinamation International Corp. A technical team arrived from their headquarters in San Juan Capistrano to oversee installation of "Dinosaurs Alive." They repaired that sliced Apatosaurus hump and kept the growl going in the "tyrant lizard."

And there is more to "Dinosaurs Alive" than these dina-mated creatures. A visual timeline will illustrate to visitors when dinosaurs ruled the earth. On loan from the Paleontology Museum at the University of California at Berkeley are dinosaur vertebrae, castings of huge footprints and the lower jaw of an actual Tyrannosaurus.

Local schoolchildren have contributed to the collection as well. Their drawings of dinosaurs lend a "whimsical touch to the show. And a special "Dinashop" has been opened for the duration, featuring an assortment of dinosaur products, such as models, posters, coloring books and other activity books.

In the "hands-on" category are the skin and eyeball of a dinosaur, reproduced according to the latest scientific data, and a "Tyrannosaurus Rex Robot," which shows the interior construction of the Dinamation creations.

These animated beings have already scored hits with the public in major cities.

"Some museums have purchased them," Finnegan noted. "The Los Angeles County Museum bought one for $60,000."

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History has imported the dinosaurs for the summer at a cost of approximately $50,000, he said, with major funding arriving from the Museum Association and the Pebble Beach Foundation.

Museum Director Vern Yadon observed that the Dinamation exhibit "has increased museum attendance by as much as 1,500 percent" in several parts of the country.

The Dinamation offspring represent a marriage of paleontological research, state-of-the-art technology and artistry.

Dinamation employs a board of advisors, paleontologists from around the United States, to provide as accurate a blueprint as is now possible to use in building a dinosaur. The creatures have skeletons formed not of bone, but metal. Compressed air travels through a network of cylinders and valves throughout the beings, which have been programmed by a computer to move in different, and presumably lifelike, patterns.

Their skeletons are covered with a sculpted foam padding to give the desired dinosaur shape. This is covered by a resin skin, dyed and painted to give the dinosaurs individuality.

According to the Dinamation team, the sound made by the creatures is based on current scientific belief that dinosaurs sounded like modern reptiles. Their voices are duplicated by digital recordings programmed to synchronize with specific mouth movements.

The result: blinking, bellowing, "thunder lizards."

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History has imported five varieties for this show. The lone carnivore represented is the Tyrannosaurus, appropriately at home in a room of its own. Also present are Triceratops "three-horned face," Apatosaurus "deceptive lizard," Parasaurolophus "similar crested lizard" and, suspended overhead, Pteranodon "winged and toothless."

Two of the dinosaurs will also have their babies at their sides — Apatosaurus and Parasaurolophus.

Finnegan says the museum is prepared for a healthy turnout for this summer show.

"I receive 15 to 20 phone calls a day about it from as far north as Santa Rosa and as far south as Bakersfield," he said. Indeed, he added, the collection is designed to appeal "to children of all ages."

Just don't try to feed the "Tyrant Lizard."

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays. The museum is closed Mondays.

Tickets to "Dinosaurs Alive" are $3.50 for adults and $2 for children. Advance tickets through Ticketron can be ordered through Center Stage Ticketing, 467 Alvarado St., Monterey, 649-5561. Ticketron orders cost $1 extra per person if picked up at Center Stage.

EDITORIAL: AN EARLY VOTE DESIRED

The proposed amendment to the Constitution regarding child labor is not, as many suppose, an anti child-labor law. It is simply a provision giving Congress the right to regulate child labor, experience with the Supreme Court having proved that under the Constitution at present Congress cannot legislate on this subject for the states.

One million children between 10 and 16 years of age were reported during 1920 as gainfully employed. Considerably more than one-third of these were under 14 years of age. State child labor laws have improved during the last decade, but 11 states still allow children under 16 to work from nine to 11 hours a day; nine states do not prohibit all children under 14 from working in both factories and stores; 35 states allow children to go to work without a common school education, four states do not protect children under 16 from night work.

Those opposed to child labor legislation say that the amendment is an invasion of state rights; those who see the question from the children's side will contend that the government has a right to protect its future citizens from greed and too early labor.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY NO MAJOR PROBLEM...YET

No great juvenile delinquency problem exists in the Carmel area at present, despite the arrest of eight youths last month for burglary and petty theft, but parents had better heed a warning, spend more time with their children, also set definite behaviour rules and stick to them, was the outcome of a meeting in city hall Monday.

Police Chief Clyde Klaumann, Sheriff Jack Davenport, Judge Eugene Harrah, Superintendent of Schools Medill Bair and Chester V. Lewis, a sociologist, presented a panel discussion on juvenile problems at the request of Mayor Herbert Banks.

PLANNERS STRUGGLE WITH SHORT-TERM RENTALS

The Carmel Planning Commission struggled through a two-hour long study session Wednesday, June 6, but is still far away from drafting a new ordinance on transient occupancy in Carmel.

Commissioners agreed that short-term rental of private homes has existed here on a large scale for 50 years.

Commissioners fear transient occupancy will change some portions of the residential district into overnight motel operations.

The present law defines a transient as any person who exercises occupancy for a period of 30 calendar days or less.

The proposed ordinance would broaden and toughen limitations, but commissioners disagreed over what details would be fair to homeowners and would still be enforceable.

RESIDENTS LAUNCH DRIVE AGAINST LIBRARY ANNEX

A petition drive against a Carmel City Council scheme to build a library annex directly on Lincoln Street has been launched by a small band of neighborhood residents and business people.

The council plan to build the Harrison Memorial Library annex on Lincoln Street between Ocean and Sixth avenues will generate traffic problems, reduce available parking and spoil an open view to the south, the petition claims.

Circulators hope to present the petitions to the council in early July. They also would like the council to schedule a town meeting on the annex location alternatives.

Bring own water to Molera Park

Drinking or potable water is no longer available in the Andrew Molera State Park, located on the Big Sur Coast.

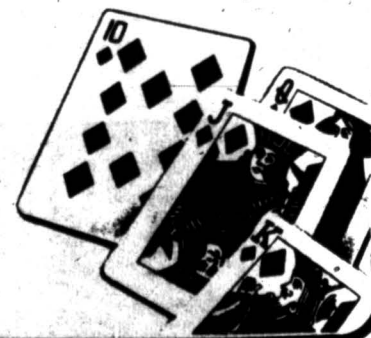

In the past, potable water was provided by "water buffaloes." The old military metal water tanks on wheels no longer meet state health standards for drinking water and have been removed from the park.

Campers and day users should plan on bringing their own drinking water. Drinking water is available at Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park and Julia Pfeiffer Burns State Park.

PASSING NOTES

By Ticien Carlson

Graduation

ON FRIDAY, the 16th of June, the class of 1989 will graduate from Carmel High School.

It is a strange time for the senior class, exciting and terrifying and very new. Most of us have known nothing but school, family and friends in our lifetimes. Suddenly we find ourselves parting from our friends, leaving our families, and facing the real world. We take with us only our new-found independence and that experience which our childhoods have given us. For the first time in our lives, we have a past.

It is difficult for us to know what to say to those who have so influenced us, an influence we may recognize only now that we are moving on. We wonder why you touched us. We wonder what you think of the people we've become. We want to tell you how much you've meant to us, but it is not an easy thing to do. We are still getting used to ourselves. We are only beginning to realize how you've influenced us and just what it all means.

What do we say to our parents, to whom we may have shown little gratitude but feel much? Did you ever imagine this moment when you held a small pink and blue bundle in your arms, this moment when your child walks up the steps of the stage and walks down them a completely new creature startlingly like yourself? Are we what you expected? Hoped for? Are you proud of us? Are you proud of yourselves? We wonder if the bittersweet memories will fade as even now the arguments, missed curfews, and groundings — a million tiny heartbreaks — seem far away indeed.

Of all the influences, you have had the most impact and borne the most responsibility. You have shaped who we are but perhaps, in a small way, we have also shaped you. There were nights of worry and times when you knew even less what to do than we did, but you had to be strong and guide us nonetheless. Those nights were not in vain. You did your best for us. You loved us. And we thank you.

What do we say to our friends, who we needed so much and may have been better off without? We shared everything — our secrets, our lunches — and now we share our memories. We loved each other and we used each other. Often we took care of each other and sometimes we cut each other to pieces.

We will miss each other and while some of us will remain friends throughout the years to come; many friends we will never see again. Maybe someday we will meet on a street corner or at an executive meeting and for a brief time be 16 again together, but we will inevitably part ways again.

And what do we say to our teachers, of whom we were so intolerant and who tolerated us so patiently? We never stopped to wonder why you became teachers. We never realized that you had faith and hope in us or that you chose to be a teacher because of that hope.

We never realized that your only reward was that rare, brief flicker of comprehension and interest and wonder in our faces. We never noticed that you were human and we thought you did not hear us talking or really see us sleeping. We thought you didn't notice when we were only pretending to listen. We were so self-absorbed we didn't see that you were more aware of what we were going through than we were. And you let it go so many times. Thank you for wanting to teach us. Despite everything, we did learn.

And what can we say to our first loves? We loved you whether we spent years watching from a distance, never daring to say a word, or enjoyed every waking moment with you. We loved you whether you loved us back or scorned us or never saw us at all. Whether we were too young or too serious, or too afraid, we loved you all the same. We shall always carry the memories and we shall always bear the scars you inflicted. We will cherish the good times — a wave in the hallway, a promise ring, or offered letterman's jacket — and we will nurse the bad times — the unanswered phone calls, the breakups, or worse, the not-knowing. We can never forget you.

There were many others who touched our lives, like employers and relatives and coaches. All of you were our mentors, our role models, and occasionally our nemeses. We want you to be proud of us. We want to be able to repay you for all that you have given, but all we can offer is the promise of our future, the hope of our dreams, and the knowledge that you deeply touched another person's life. We appreciate you all.

"Your children are not your children. They are the sons and daughters of life's longing for itself. They come through you but not from you, and though they are with you, yet they belong not to you. You may give them your love but not your thoughts. For they have their own thoughts. You may house their bodies, but not their souls, for their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow, which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams. You may strive to be like them, but seek not to make them like you. For life goes not backwards nor tarries with yesterday. You are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth...Let your bending in the archer's hand be for gladness; For even as he loves the arrow that flies, so he loves also the bow that is stable."

SENIOR LINE

By Bill Schneider

Swan song

DEAR READERS! This will be the last Senior Line I prepare. I'll be moving from California later this year and demands on my time make it impossible to continue the column.

The good news is that Seymour "Les" Lesser will take over the column without interruption. Les is a member of the Area Agency on Aging Advisory Council and has an extensive background in many areas including, consumer affairs, health insurance and finance.

I want to thank the editors and staff of the 10 papers which carry the column for their support and guidance but most of all express my gratitude to you the readers for your input. Without you, there would be no Senior Line.

Q. IT seems that at least once a week I read an article knocking Social Security. Either the rich and elderly get all the money while the poor children starve, or Social Security is going broke, or they're not doing their job because they didn't check to see if this woman running a boarding house in Sacramento had a criminal record before paying her some guy's benefits. What's going on?

A. BOOKS could be written answering this letter but I'll try to make just a few points. Some of the criticism seems to be sincere although in my opinion misdirected.

Those advocating a means test to receive Social Security state that they want the benefits reserved for the needy. This would be breaking a compact with every worker who ever had a dime withheld from his pay expecting to receive benefits if he becomes disabled or when he retires. The Supplemental Security Income program, still under utilized, should somewhat satisfy these critics with regard to the aged, disabled and blind.

I support many programs for children and the poor but wish some of these zealots would think positive and make a case for their program rather than trying to use Social Security as the whipping boy because they failed in promoting their cause.

The Social Security trust funds are doing fine and building a large surplus to pay benefits to the baby boomers in the next century. These funds, by law, can only be used to pay benefits and the administrative expenses of the Social Security Administration although any funds not currently needed are loaned to the U.S. Treasury at the going interest rate.

There are more than 4 million Social Security beneficiaries who are incapable of managing their own benefits and therefore must have a Representative Payee. It is a non-paying job which requires record keeping and reporting on the use of the benefits.

Considering that there are no funds available to conduct background checks of these Representative Payees, I think the Social Security Administration does a good job in the selection process. The most difficult selections are those where the beneficiary is not institutionalized and no relatives can be found.

In all cases much of the information used in making the determination comes from a report by the physician as to the beneficiary's condition and whether anyone shows interest in the beneficiary's welfare.

(Need information on senior affairs? Write Senior Line, Area Agency on Aging, 1184 Monroe Street, Suite 10, Salinas, Ca. 93906 or call 372-7662. Senior Line needs your name, address and phone number but these will be withheld on request. Printed letters may be edited to meet space requirements.)

BUY Peninsula FIRST

By Linda G. Horning

Kontinuing Kolumn

KONTINUING WITH my columns featuring one-and-few-of-a-kind businesses on the peninsula, we'll start with Kayaking under the K's move on to kover kites, and konklude this segment with a market research service.

I can never resist the opportunity to mention the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce/Visitor & Convention Bureau's semi-annual trade fairs, one of which was recently held at the Doubletree. If you missed the Adventures By the Sea booth, mark your calendars and plan to attend the fall event, scheduled for Nov. 2, 1989. Adventures by the Sea was selected as one of three out of 85 businesses for special recognition for having an outstanding booth, and they plan to join the festivities at the next fair.

In addition to kayak rentals, tours and lessons, Adventures by the Sea offers cycling rentals and tours, as well as corporate and group outings, tours, clambakes, and recreational services. For those who aren't familiar with kayaks, they're similar to canoes but without the dreaded "tip-overability" prevalent in canoes (thank goodness! A movable object designed with me in mind!) No experience is required, because it's a very stable craft, far easier to maneuver than a canoe. Adventures by the Sea has the latest designs in one-person ocean kayaks and is the largest Scupper rental service in the U.S.

With a little pre-departure instruction, you can go out on your own, or if you prefer, a tour guide will accompany a group from Monterey Plaza beach and take you along Cannery Row for a visit at the kelp forest, to the Marine Hopkins Institute where the harbor seals will entertain you, and on around the bay for exciting adventure. It's educational as well as fun! Reservations are recommended, and you can call Frank, the owner, or Dina or Kathy at 372-1807; they'll be happy to talk to you.

Jeff and Casandra Schrock, owners of Monterey Bay Kayaks, offer exclusively kayak rentals, tours and lessons, typically in double (two-person) kayaks in the traditional closed cockpit style. There are two tours available; one launches from Del Monte Beach near Wharf No. 2 and takes you along Cannery Row, where you'll stop for lunch, then back toward Del Monte Beach, where you will provide entertainment for the sea otters and kelp-bed critters. Have you ever seen a kelp crab, or a turban snail? (It's probably trying to make a fashion statement.)

The other tour launches from the Moss Landing area, where you'll kayak back into the Elkhorn Slough and, in addition to the marine life, you'll have an opportunity to observe some of the more than 200 species of birds that use the slough on their migration path. All members of the MBK staff are naturalists, so you're sure to learn something interesting. MBK hosts a bi-weekly "paddle & gab" social, where paddlers of all levels of skill are invited to join a group out on the bay one evening. MBK also has a retail shop that carries the latest in kayak designs and a complete line of water sports clothing, including wetsuits. For further information on MBK's activities, (and to place your name on the mailing list for their quarterly newsletter), call 373-KELP (that's KERP, not HELP which is what I will need if I attempt anything involving my feet leaving the ground!)

WE'VE ALL been told at one time or another to "go fly a kite." But Steve Rubin, owner and Corey Jensen, head buckaroo at Windborne Kites, took it literally. Steve says they are kite-flyers first and merchants second. They have created the largest collection of kites and windsocks in America, boasting more than 27,000 cubic feet of color. Every Saturday and Sunday at the beach next to the Monterey Beach Hotel, you'll see a variety of Windborne kites and windsocks riding the breezes. My personal favorite is the stickless (parafoil) kite in the shape of legs "kicking" in the breeze; it really puts a smile on your face as you're driving down Highway 1. They also amuse passers-by with a giant pig wind sock — they have smaller ones, as well as many other shapes and designs, at their shop located at 585 Cannery Row at Hoffman. They're in their fifth year of telling people to "go fly a kite." Call Steve or Corey at 373-7422 to see if they have your favorite design, or better still, treat yourself to a visit to their cheerful and colorful store.

So, you want to start a business, but don't know if the market exists? Before you spend money on marketing, advertising and set-up, you may wish to acquire information enabling you to create a business plan that will be effective and profitable.

Jane Sullivan, owner of the Monterey Division of Pulse Research, tailors her survey techniques to be affordable by small businesses, non-profit organizations, associations, government entities, or any group wishing to evaluate its member of consumer needs and their satisfaction with a program, service, publication, personnel and/or product. These surveys are conducted in person, by mail or by phone. Jane has operated Pulse Research locally for the past four years, after she and a partner observed that businesses weren't meeting their customer's needs, and those businesses had no effective means of gathering the information necessary to enable them to zero in on their weaknesses and strengths.

Jane is a personal friend of mine (I'm always asking her where she keeps Dick and Spot); a bright, fun and capable lady who chairs the Small Business Committee of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce. This challenging position places her in close contact with small businesses, non-profits and other organizations, not to mention numerous individuals and groups, which is why I believe she truly has her finger on the pulse of the community. To see how market research services might maximize your organization's potential, call Jane at 375-4911.

Join me in two weeks when we'll go roaming from the R's to strolling through the S's on this unique-business trip (not to be confused with a unique business trip). See you then!

(This bi-weekly column is a service of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce "Buy Peninsula First" campaign, a joint project of the Economic Development Committee and the Small Business Committee. Readers are invited to submit their thoughts and suggestions in writing to "Buy Peninsula First," c/o the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, PO Box 1770, Monterey, CA 93940.)

You Don't Have To Eat Pesticide-Treated Foods! There Is A Safer Alternative!

If you have been alarmed by the recent publicity concerning the presence of potentially harmful chemical residues in your food, then you should know two things:

1. You are not alone
2. You have viable, affordable alternatives

ORGANIC MEANS POISON FREE

For decades, a small but dedicated group of farmers has been committed to farming practices which do not use any synthetically-compounded chemicals in the growing or processing of their foods. They employ techniques and practices commonly referred to as "organic farming".

Since 1973 the Granary Market has been quietly committed to using all of its resources to making these natural and organically grown foods available to health-conscious consumers.

California state law* sets the legal requirements for how organic foods must be grown and processed. If the foods are labeled as certified organically grown*, they must meet these requirements.

It has always been our conviction that, ultimately, when fully informed, the consumer will choose health-promoting foods.

Today, fortunately, the availability of certified organically grown foods and no spray fruits and vegetables is greater than ever.*

We invite you to visit our store. Ask for some information about our produce. Try some! The taste alone will convince you of its superior quality, not to mention that most of it is grown without the use of any potentially harmful sprays or chemicals.

Professor Lincoln Brower, world expert on Monarch butterflies, will give a lecture and slide presentation titled "Monarch Butterfly Overwintering: The Achilles Heel," Wednesday evening, June 21, in the Pebble Beach Room of the Hyatt Regency Monterey, Number 1 Old Golf Course Road. The lecture is at 7 p.m., followed by a wine tasting reception. Monarch T-shirts and books on butterflies and insects will be available.

Brower will discuss the challenges facing the preservation of the unique life history and migration of the Monarch butterfly. Spectacular images of Monarchs in Mexico and cogent graphics of recent research will illustrate the story of the Monarch butterfly's adaptation to the North American continent.

The Monarch is a tropical butterfly which developed its unusual migration pattern to exploit the abundant milkweed flora across North America. Over the course of 10,000 years, the Monarch population developed two separate migrations, split by the Continental Divide. The Monarch's achilles heel is its overwintering cycle, as human-caused changes impact the habitats both in Mexico and California. Brower will discuss why the overwintering sites are critical, and what creates the ideal conditions for Monarch overwintering.

Brower, distinguished professor of zoology at the University of Florida at Gainesville, has been studying the Monarch butterfly in the eastern United States, California, Australia, the New World tropics and Mexico for 30 years.

The lecture is sponsored by The Monarch Project of the Xerces Society, Friends of the Monarch, a Pacific Grove-based non-profit organization protecting Monarch habitat, and the Hyatt Regency Monterey. Admission is $5; proceeds will benefit the Monarch Project and Friends of the Monarch.

Financing Your Future

Q: How can I make sure my life insurance proceeds won't be taxed as part of my estate?

A: There are several steps you can take to protect proceeds from federal estate tax.

First, your estate should not be the beneficiary of your life insurance policy. That decision increases tax liabilities, probate costs, and subjects proceeds to the claims of creditors. Name an individual or trust as your beneficiary and select at least two backup beneficiaries.

Second, you should not own your own policy. If you do, or transfer it less than three years before your death, the proceeds will be taxed as part of your estate. The best option is to have your beneficiary or trust buy and own the policy from the start to avoid estate and other taxes.

Third, you should not leave everything to your spouse without considering your federal estate tax bracket. Although spouses can claim an unlimited marital deduction, over-using it could push your spouse's estate into a higher estate tax bracket.

The Dawn Project has particular interest in children with emotional, developmental and medical special needs, including research and treatment for children with Aids.

Children's Services Center finds adoptive and foster parents for children of all ages with developmental, medical and emotional special needs. Salinas Valley Hospice serves children with a variety of life threatening illnesses.

HOSPICE LAUNCHES COMMUNITY DRIVE TO RAISE $2.5 MILLION FROM COMMUNITY

As part of its effort to raise funds to build a new inpatient care center by 1991, Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula has launched a $2.5 million Community Pledge Drive.

The new 24-bed facility, to be located off Iris Canyon Road in Monterey, will be situated on land donated to Hospice by the Pebble Beach Co.

"The graying of America, and particularly the Monterey Peninsula, means that the demands on Hospice in the years to come will only increase. This community is fortunate to have one of only a few free-standing Hospice facilities in the state, but it must be expanded to meet a growing need," said Capital Campaign Chairman J. Daniel Tibbitts.

Hospice serves individuals, and their families, facing life-threatening illnesses, including pain control management. The new facility will have a pediatric wing to provide care for the increasing number of children Hospice is asked to serve.

In 1988, Hospice served 347 patients and their families, double the case load in 1987. This brings to 3,375 the number of patients cared for since its founding in 1977.

According to Susan Freeland, Hospice vice president, development, half the stated goal has been met through several grants, but part is in the form of a $1 million challenge grant which must be met by community donations before it becomes a reality.

Freeland anticipates many gifts will come in the form of three-year pledges. "A $1,000 pledge amounts to less than one dollar per day over three years."

Gifts of $1,000 or more will be acknowledged by placement of a ceramic tile, encribed with the name of the donor or a

UNION CARBIDE AWARDS GRANT TO HOSPICE

Union Carbide Corporation last week awarded a grant to Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula to enable its administrator, Jim Shelton, to attend the National Hospice Organization training conference in Rockville, Md. later this month. Judith Herrmann, executive director of Hospice, Jim Shelton, Hospice administrator, and Susan Freeland, director of development, were on hand to receive the check for $1,000 from L.P. Peters, site manager for Union Carbide.

The grant is part of a new community outreach program undertaken by Union Carbide to support local hospices in communities where the corporation has employees and retirees.

"Union Carbide is very interested in the issue of health care cost containment," said Peters. "We view the hospice organization as a cost-efficient means of delivering a valuable service, and enhancing the quality of care to members of the community. By assisting hospice management to attend the national conference, we hope to encourage a stronger hospice organization and support the delivery of services to the community."

Fenced in

LISA KAUFMANN, Bay School president, presented part of the school's fence and a check made by the students for $6,440 to Carmel Unified School District board members Pat Condren and Hilton Bialek at the CUSD board's June 8 meeting. The check represented the $6,440 the school and community raised to reimburse the school district for a new fence around the school just off Highway 1. Fund-raisers, including Bay Day, helped pay for the fence, which was not in the district's budget. Meanwhile Gavin Edward, 4, graduated from Bay School nursery along with 30 other schoolmates in ceremonies held the same night. The new grads were also rewarded with cake and ice cream after the ceremonies. (Chuck Scardina photos.)

Seniors program needs participants

Carmel Police Department's "Seniors Helping Seniors" program has need for two types of seniors: those who would like to help and those who desire help.

According to Cathy Dampier, desk officer, there are seniors who are looking for some type of community involvement to donate their time and others who are lonely, "shut-ins," or are "at-risk" due to medical or physical reasons and desire contact with someone who cares about their welfare.

Under the program, senior volunteers call participants of the program by telephone from the Carmel Police Department. If for some reason the recipient doesn't answer the phone, the volunteer alerts the police dispatcher and a patrol unit is sent to check on the participant's welfare. To be effective, calls are made at about the same time every day, Dampier said, but the seniors aren't restricted to their homes. If they plan to be gone, they merely notify the police department in advance.

In addition to the daily phone calls, home visitations, tea parties, and luncheons are also scheduled to "further enhance and improve the quality of our contacts" with

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

When New York City sponsors a fair, it's bound to be big and lively. So it is with the annual "Ability Is Ageless" Job Fair for people over 54, sponsored by the city's Department for the Aging. Started in 1981, the one-day event now draws 4,000 men and women along with recruiters from 100 companies. "The fair gives people interested in hiring mature people an opportunity to meet those interested in working," said Janet Sainer, commissioner for the aging. Many of those looking for jobs are in their 60s or 70s.

"Drink your milk!" Long after directing those words at their children, today's elderly men and women should bear them in mind. Many older people do not get enough calcium in their diets. Calcium helps to prevent osteoporosis, which weakens bones and makes them susceptible to fractures. Good sources of calcium are milk, cheese, yogurt, cooked dried beans, collards and broccoli. Ask your doctor.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Helping others is way of life for some

Carmel Pine Cone
March 19, 1981

Oh almighty and eternal God, our loving Father, Thou hast promised to remain forever with those who do what is just and right.

Help us to live by Thy admonition of service to others and bless this food to our use.

On the TV program 60 Minutes, there was a report of a voluntary group of New York Chicanos, blacks and whites, most of them blue-collar workers, who have formed an organization of concerned citizens calling themselves the "Guardian Angels." They wear red berets and sports jackets and ride the subways and public transportation, unarmed, to protect the riders from violence, robbers and muggers.

In the past few months they have made over 200 citizen arrests. Despite this success, they have been denounced by New York's Mayor Koch and the Police Department as a group of vigilantes. Their founder says, "These days nobody does nothin' for nothin'."

The Guardian Angels are unique because they are doing something for nothing, just as Rotarians are doing in every corner of the world.

Oh Lord, help us to go on helping others and help us to prove wrong those who say, "These days nobody does nothin' for nothin'." It just ain't so!

Amen.

those who are shut-ins or at-risk, Dampier said.

Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer or a recipient of the "Seniors Helping Seniors" program is encouraged to call the Carmel Police Department at 624-6403.

CRITIC AT LARGE

Sellout fever

FOR THE first time in recent memory — perhaps even the first time ever — The Club of Monterey may experience a sellout on a Thursday, its live music night.

Sheila E. couldn't do it, The Tubes fell short, Gary Myrick, as popular as he is here, misses the mark, even Los Lobos, David Crosby and Dave Mason have come close, but no cigar.

Who is this paragon of popularity who is drawing the traditionally apathetic Monterey Peninsula audiences in droves? Believe it or not, Rodney Crowell. Rodney Crowell? Who he, some of you may ask?

Well, ask Bob Seger (Shame on the Moon), Juice Newton (Queen of Hearts), Waylon Jennings (I Ain't Livin' Long Like This) and a host of others, including his wife Roseanne Cash. Not only that, after several excellent albums that have gone nowhere commercially, Crowell has hit it big on the country charts with four hits from his current album Diamonds and Dirt.

Crowell may have hit the country charts, but he can still rock with the best of them, as shown in his stints with Emmylou Harris' Hot Band and his own hard-rockin' Cherry Bombs.

This is one show not to be missed, but you may miss it if you haven't bought tickets already for tonight's (June 15) show (Recycled Records in New Monterey, or at the door — if you're real lucky). Crowell also plays the Catalyst in Santa Cruz on Saturday, but that one's fast approaching a sellout too (tickets at BASS at Warehouse in New Monterey).

SPEAKING OF sellouts, Bonnie Raitt's show at the Catalyst Thursday, June 22 is completely sold out and has been for the past few days.

Raitt, who is already a big draw in Santa Cruz, is riding the crest of her new hit album, Nick of Time, which features John Hiatt's Thing Called Love and a couple of tunes from San Francisco's Bonnie Hayes (of Wild Combo fame).

Raitt will be appearing with Richard Thompson, the great folk-rock guitarist-songwriter from England, whose albums (much like Crowell and Raitt), have been critically praised, but commercially shunned. The potent combination of Raitt and Thompson should be a stunner.

Sellouts are also occurring at a rapid pace for Paul Masson's Summer Series.

Tickets are still available for the following shows as of Wednesday, June 14: Dick Bright's Salute (July 4), The O'Jays and Temptations (July 6-8), Roberta Flack (July 13 and 16), Jose Feliciano (July 22-23), Chuck Mangione (July 27-30), Victor Borge (Aug. 4-6), B.B. King and Roy Rogers and the Delta Rhythm Kings (Aug. 17, 18, 20), Ricky Skaggs (Aug. 26-27), Mel Torme (Aug. 31, Sept. 3-4), Johnny Mathis (Sept. 21, 24) and Stephane Grappelli (Sept. 23-24).

Amazingly, tickets to John Hiatt's 2 p.m. Saturday, July 1 show are still available. Hiatt, like Crowell, Raitt and Thompson, doesn't have a large commercial following, but his last two albums, Bring the Family and Slow Turning have been nothing short of brilliant. And like Crowell his songs have been recorded (and made into hits), by a number of artists, such as the aforementioned Bonnie Raitt, Roseanne Cash and Emmylou Harris. Even the Neville Brothers have recorded one of his songs!

The rest of the shows (not including classical and benefit shows), not mentioned are sold out (even Carlos Santana's four-day stint). Call 741-5181 to order.

REMEMBER, THE Monterey Bay Blues Festival is fast approaching — June 24-25 at the Monterey Fairgrounds — and this one promises to be a killer (unlike past years).

Performers include James Cotton, Charlie Musselwhite, Little Charlie and the Night Cats, Solomon Burke, Johnny "Clyde" Copeland and Albert Collins, "The Master of the Telecaster." More on that next week.

For tickets call 394-2652. A variety of packages and seats available.

County-wide competition signed up for 10th Surfabout

A YEARLY tradition for Monterey County sports enthusiasts, surfers and beachgoers alike, the 10th annual Surfabout arrives Saturday and Sunday, June 17-18, at Carmel Beach. The event is co-sponsored by Sunshine Surf and Sport and Gotcha Beachwear.

The Surfabout includes surfing events for boys age 12 to 14, juniors age 15 to 17, men age 18 to 24, masters age 25 to 35 and grand masters age 36 and older. Also included in the list of events are women's longboard and short board surfing, mens' open longboard surfing, two age groups of boogie boarding, skimboarding, kneeboarding, distance paddling and team relay paddling races.

A traditional event included in the contest is the Dick Cross Memorial Distance paddling race. This is a grueling endurance race which challenges the surfers' ability in the open ocean, both physically and mentally. The event was won last year by Paul Smith, who narrowly defeated the 1987 paddling race winner, Ed Guzman in a photo finish.

A fun event for both competitors and spectators is the team paddling relay race. In this relay, the surfboard is handed off as a "baton" from one surfer to the next as they paddle out through the surf and around a floating buoy beyond the breakers.

Contest entries are limited to Monterey

County residents only, which is imposed by the city of Carmel in order to maintain the local, hometown flavor of the Surfabout. This restriction has encouraged more beachgoers to enter the contest, as it is held more in the spirit of fun than serious competition. Everyone is welcome and encouraged to attend this weekend at Carmel Beach. The events begin at 6:30 Saturday and Sunday mornings and continue throughout both days.

Big Sur seeks former residents of lightstation

The Big Sur State Parks cooperating association wants to contact former residents of the Point Sur Lightstation to obtain more information on the operation of the lightstation and family life there.

Point Sur docents who now conduct tours of the lightstation would like to talk with any former residents, and the association hopes to arrange a special tour for them. Any former residents who are interested in giving information, donating photos or other items, or touring the lightstation, may contact the Big Sur Natural History Association, P.O. Box 189, Big Sur, CA 93920.

This is the centennial year of the Point Sur Lightstation and the bicentennial of the U.S. Lighthouse Service. A major centennial celebration is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 5 and 6. Docents will provide guided public tours. Further details are available from the Big Sur Natural History Association.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Summer jazz debuts at Mission Ranch

THIS MAJOR development has been brewing for weeks. And now its authors let fly with hard facts rather than maybes.

Mission Ranch Barn will offer a high-quality Summer Jazz Series. Vibes master Bobby Hutcherson has signed on as honcho of next month's inaugural concert.

Mission Ranch owner Clint Eastwood backs the idea fully. Booking agent Connie Booth released details after meeting with the husband-and-wife team that produces music events at the local landmark. You know: Steve and Marilyn Nergord.

Connie negotiated talent for that private jazz bash to be held by the Toyota people at Spanish Bay. She had said she'd check out public venues where some of the same stars might could play. Her pledge met and was compatible with Steve and Marilyn's long-simmering wish: knockout summertime shows.

Joining Bobby for a two-night run (7/28-29) will be Buddy Montgomery on piano, tenor sax giant Harold Land, Jeff Chambers and his bass, drummer Eddie Moore. Both evenings — Friday and Saturday — will include an hors d'oeuvre buffet from 7:30-8:30 with the first set commencing half an hour later. Cost: $20 per person per concert. Contact Center Stage Ticketing if you wish advance treatment.

"An excellent baby grand piano will be brought in for the occasion," our source said. "Steve and Marilyn have made a commitment to refined touches as well as to the full series."

Connie's already working on subsequent bookings. One group mentioned as a "strong possibility" was John Handy and Class (three young women who back the alto saxist with electric violins and vocals).

Also in mind — Cal Tjader Memorial Concert. The band would be Radcliffe. That Tjader alumni unit was organized by drummer Vince Lateano and carries the late Cal's middle name.

The crowd-pleasing Monterey Jazz Orchestra will continue to play Monday nights at Mission Ranch Barn.

Meanwhile, Connie's partner at the Kelly/Booth Agency announces a new jazz touch at Monterey Plaza Hotel on Cannery Row. Starting Sunday afternoon (6/18), says John Kelly, Ace Hill Trio will swing from 1-5 on the outdoor terrace.

Other dates on Ace's contract: June 25, July 2, July 9. Brunch and cocktails available. No cover.

Guitarist Jeff Linsky may be heard Friday and Saturday nights inside the hotel.

VOCALIST Scotty Wright and John Cortes Quartet will work together at Monterey Jazz Festival come September. They previewed that date by blowing out Monterey Bay Club walls. It was Scotty's first appearance here since he got signed to play Bill (Bojangles) Robinson in a feature film biography.

Next week's column shall report even more breaks for the sturdy singer who studied music at Monterey Peninsula College and worked local spots for years. Worth noting right now: he's the same cordial guy. No showbiz airs. Reedman Cortes, pianist John Donaldson, extremely tasteful drummer Dan Sabanovich, bassist Mike Marcus, guest artist Kenny Stahl on flute — each enjoyed ample solo time and cooked brightly. (Mike said he's heading back to New England Conservatory and studies with Dave Holland.)

Between sets one and two, jazz photographer Will Wallace was honored and surprised. Will recently retired from his 25-year day gig. Friends arranged for a big cake to be brought out and shared with the crowd.

That cake had one word written across its top — Swing. A quiet man and modest, Will glanced at his camera and then told everyone: "I'll be playing my instrument straight-ahead and in all keys."

His pert wife Mary was on hand — as were Scotty's mother, father and sister. Some other celebrants: Bryan McConnell, jazz broadcaster Don Balesieri, Bill and Betty Minor, Tup Lohse, ace jazz buff Will Riddle, Larry and Elaine Barsch, Roland Allen, Luisa (charming spouse of John Cortes).

Terry Miller's new group carries quite an upfront name: The New Group. Terry on electric bass, of course, with Don Pendergrass (acoustic piano and DX7), Ron Parker (guitar), Pat Tregenza (drums), Richard Bryant (vocals). "We play things that we don't get to do with other bands," Miller said right before this unit kicked off its debut at Monterey Bay Club.

Another commitment meant that I could stay for the first set only. It was long enough to hear the obviously good-humored bunch demonstrate fresh eclecticism: pretty jazz, fusion, Latin touches, intelligible rock. The particular mix suggested summertime lawn parties where couples can dance or laze and listen as they prefer.

It may be that they cranked up the volume later on. The one set established that The New Group's good taste could grab an old jazz dog (yours truly) who normally would take a hike when rock tunes emerged. Welcome addition.

Same room: Bop Tet (San Jose band fronted by drummer Sammy Cohen — 6/15), Spang-a-lang (6/16), JB and the Nightshift (6/17), Bob Phillips/Terry Miller Duo (6/18), Duo Du Jour (6/19), Jack and Ed Show (6/20), Higher Feelings (6/21-22).

LET'S GO on the road. Simply because some notable programs will occur at off-peninsula cities.

— Monday night (6/19), Kuumbwa Jazz Center in Santa Cruz offers the Mal Waldron Quartet with pianist Mal leading fine tenorman Ricky Ford, Reggie Workman on bass, drummer Eddie Moore. It's $12 per and an eight o'clock kick. Center Stage Ticketing.

— As reported previously, Jazz Camp '89 opens July 23 at Monte Toyon Center in Aptos. A benefit for the eight-day session has been booked Tuesday night (6/20) by Kimball's East (Emeryville). Amazing duo: Joe Henderson's tenor and Ed Kelly at the piano. Pete Escovedo Orchestra, Oakland Interfaith Gospel Choir. Just $15. Call (415) 658-2555.

At that same venue through Sunday night (6/18) — Tony Williams Quintet with pianist Mulgrew Miller, Bill Pierce (sax), Wallace Roney (trumpet), Bob Hurst (bass). Pianist Dorothy Donegan opens a four-day run at Kimball's/San Francisco on June 21.

— Watsonville hosts the third annual Fats Waller Memorial Jazz Festival this weekend (6/16-17-18). Producer Alice Leyland again presents a high-energy traditional slate: Pianorama with Ralph Sutton and several others, many bands, vocal sets, gospel choir. Good food and jitney service available. Call her for ticket information at 1-728-3948 or 1-728-6049.

— "A razzmatazz musical filled with jazz, torch songs and crooners." That's how Western Stage at Hartnell College describes the show entitled Chicago. Book by Bob Fosse and Fred Ebb. John Kander's music. Opens June 23. Ticket info via 375-2111.

— Great talent just announced for September's San Francisco Blues Festival (9/9-10) at Fort Mason Meadow: Etta James, Johnny Winter, Otis Rush, Big Jay McNeely, Ernestine Anderson, Richie Cole, Ronnie Earl, Duke Robillard, Pleasure Kings.

— Yoshi's on the Oakland/Berkeley line has Joe Williams through Sunday evening (6/18).

— Slim's in San Francisco puts forth a hot bill Friday night (6/16). From New Orleans: Dr. John plus Dirty Dozen Brass Band.

— Concord Pavilion lists Preservation Hall Jazz Band for June 30.

— The 17-piece George Gruntz Concert Jazz Band will play San Francisco's Great American Music Hall June 25. Joe Henderson, Lew Soloff, Franco Ambrosetti, Howard Johnson, on and on.

NOTEBOOK CHUNKS:

• Warner Brothers has released Clint Eastwood's filmic biography of Charles Parker into the home video market. The 161-minute Bird costs $89.95. It won an Oscar for best sound and features a brilliant performance by Diane Venora as ladylove Chan Parker.

• The CD by local reedman Loren Pickford gets an extremely positive review in this month's issue of the national JazzTimes. It's Song For A Blue Planet from Cexton. With George Cables, John Heard, Billy Higgins, Loren's longtime bandmate George Roessler on guitar. Says critic Bob Riedinger: "On this invigorating debut date, Pickford's big-barrelled sound owes more to the robust school of tenor sax than to any alto academy, and to the way he exploits the alto's power center in the middle register."

• World-traveling B.B. King's going home to Memphis. His manager says the master bluesman will buy a home there and open a Beale Street nightclub next year.

create an atmosphere of heightened acuity that I call Chamber Theater. As with music, it provides some of the most satisfying experiences for the viewer/listener. This is one of those times.

The play is Road to Mecca by Athol Fugard, the renowned South African playwright whose plays usually deal with the tragedy of apartheid. In the past few years, several of his plays have been performed in our area: Bloodknot at Hartnell, Lesson in Aloes at York. Athol Fugard is one of our finest living playwrights.

The Road to Mecca is not about apartheid, however, it is about personal sovereignty. It takes place in the small village of New Bethesda in the Great Karoo Desert of South Africa. It is based on the life and work of Helen Martins, an "artiste primitif" who worked in cement sculpture primarily. Her sculptures are not seen, but only referred to and gestured at since they are all outside. (It would have been a nice touch to have some photos of her work on view at intermission.)

Miss Helen has written to her teacher friend, Elsa, revealing a state of depression such that Elsa hurries to comfort her. Miss Helen is being cajoled by Marius, her "Domini" or Pastor to leave her house and go to an old peoples' home. She fears this possibility and yet there are serious signs that she may be endangering herself if she continues to live alone.

Elsa accuses Marius of trying to put Helen away because she has become an embarrassment to the village. Marius says he is doing it for her own good. Fugard's skill keeps this argument in balance, such that we don't feel it slip into propaganda. Both sides are right and wrong. Miss Helen must decide.

It never ceases to amaze me how this community can muster the talent that it does for these productions. I've commented on all of these fine actors before for other work that they have done. Seeing them together in roles for which they are so well matched and perform so well together is an added treat.

Rosamond Goodrich is superb as Miss Helen, writhing under the dilemma of her situation — realizing that both of these people care for her but that they both would also like her to make a decision that would vindicate their view.

Jim Jensen plays Marius for the unctuous prelate that he is, but also captures the underlying love that he feels for this woman. The part is complex and Jensen is excellent as Marius marshals his rhetoric against these formidable women.

Sandy Sidener brings a richness and energy to the role of Elsa Barlow that is amazing. Elsa's tale of a hitchhiker that she befriended on the drive to the Karoo, a black woman with a baby facing a desert walk of 80 miles to throw herself on the mercy of distant relatives, sets the tone of her agenda. Independence is life. Dependence is death. Elsa restrains herself at first, sparing Helen the intensity of her rage. But when Marius's strategy of submission is intensified, Elsa lets go a salvo that shakes Helen out of the morbid dependence she has developed for both of her friends. Helen comes up with a solution of her own.

The direction and set design are by Ramie Wikdahl. This, I'm sure, is an indication of Ms. Wikdahl's loving attention to this play. It takes place in the parlor of an eccentric woman of artistic vision. The broken-down furniture is offset by tapestries, paintings, and other objects d'art that she has spent a lifetime creating or collecting. Many candles make for an exotic atmosphere, but using them for illumination belies her poverty as well. Her pantry is bare but her soul is rich.

Lighting is a problem for the production. In an effort to render Helen's candle-lit parlor realistically, the lighting is kept very low. I haven't seen Fugard's notes on the lighting, but what I think happened is that Ross Brown went for verisimilitude, but in the process, cast somewhat of a pall over the proceedings. It was difficult at times to see details of the actor's expressions.

Later, when Miss Helen lights all the candles in the house and, having made her own decision, goes into a triumphant monologue, a mottled filter is used for effect. It was a confusing effect for me. The program contains an apology for the artistic license taken, substituting fake candles for real, to satisfy fire regulations. The fake candles are quite good. Perhaps Fugard also specified very low lighting. I would have taken the liberty to turn up the wattage just a bit.

You may want to use discretion in viewing this play if your family is facing a problem similar to those facing the friends of Miss Helen. Road to Mecca may uplift you. It may also depress you. There are no pat answers here and the conclusion, while triumphant in spirit, does not preclude the possibility of tragedy.

The program notes are very handsome, being the work of Nita Raichart of Type Casting, a local typesetting company. Nita is an accomplished local actress in her own right.

This production is the work of two new organizations: "Partners in Art" and "The Rural Shakespeare Company/Actors in Action." Partners in Art is an organization dedicated to producing art. It encourages limited partnerships with local businesses such as Bayside Trading Co., Luciano's Antiques, and other organizations. If you or your business wish to support this effort, contact Ramie Wikdahl.

"RSC" is to be confused with the "Royal Shakespeare Company" only in the range of its talent. It had its first production last summer in "Hamlet at York." Its box office proceeds are returned to the community and shared amongst seven Social Service agencies. If you are interested in supporting their work, contact Rosamond Goodrich.

CARMEL BACH FESTIVAL

The E. Nakamichi Foundation Recital Series

By JESSE READ
Recital Coordinator

DURING THE SHORT, dark days of winter, Maestro Salgo, having completed much of the planning for the main concerts, turns his attention and creative thought to his miniature gem of the festival, the week-long cycle of recitals sponsored by the E. Nakamichi Foundation.

With his unfailing vision of perfectly balanced programming at work, he begins to shape the outer form of the series, making decisions about key composers, pieces and important soloists. At this moment, the artist-performers are invited to come forward with suggestions, often saying "I have always wanted to perform this work..." or "I would love a chance to do this again..." or "I think Carmel would be the perfect place for..."

From the beginning, the 1989 recital series grew from the excitement, enthusiasm and artistic energy of various soloists. As the recital coordinator whose task it is to bring the various magic elements together, I help combine the leadership, stated wishes, general concepts and artistic balance of Maestro Salgo with the artists' desires, supporting players and accompanists, and arrange all in a cohesive, musically satisfying group of programs, each one with its own internal balance, with elements fitting together and contributing to the overall musical ethos of the Carmel Bach Festival.

What a treasure of music and artists emerged from this winter's efforts! Maestro Salgo was delighted to find that several of his vocal soloists could appear on the recital series and help bring a distinct vocal emphasis to the program.

William Watson, well-known for his interpretations of the works of J.S. Bach, will be singing the cantata, Jesu Meine Seele. Known to us from last year's successes, Myron Myers returns in a solo cantata for bass voice by the late 17th-century composer, Nicholas Bruhns, whom Bach admired and whose works he used as a model. Watson and Myers join for two early Italian vocal duos of love and longing.

On Tuesday's program we again meet Steven Tharp — boyish tenor with the voice from heaven — also returning from last year. Mr. Tharp will charm us with songs by Henry Purcell including If Music be the Food of Love... and on the same program, William Parker, baritone, will sing songs by Thomas Arne written for plays of William Shakespeare.

Thursday's program finds Linda Sandusky stepping from her role as member of the Festival Chorale into the also-familiar-to-her solo realm to sing the cantata Pan and Strinx by French Baroque composer Michel Pignolet Montclair. The timeless myth comes to life in this setting for soprano, flute, harpsichord and cello.

Friday's program draws another soloist from the Chorale — Susan Montgomery. She will join principal clarinetist, Gene Ramsbottom and Melinda Coffey, his wife and pianist, to perform Schubert's poetic and picturesque Shepherd on the Rock.

Of course we should remind you that the last Friday recital date, August 5, features the outstanding Festival Chorale, conducted by Priscilla Salgo, in works by Brahms and Schumann. But lest you think the recital series has gone totally vocal — we will point out that more exciting instrumental discoveries are to be made.

We heartily welcome the first visit to the Festival by the Danish Piano Trio, performing Mozart's E Major Trio, and we will again hear the festival quartet, this season with the Quartet Op. 95 by Beethoven, on the Friday program. Two important and "keystone" programs in the series feature the music of J.S. Bach entirely: Tuesday morning recitals feature the redoubtable Ken Ahrens in a program of "My Favorite Bach Organ Works" (Ken Ahrens) and the Wednesday recital of Bach violin sonatas by Christiane Edinger, long-time favorite of audiences in Carmel. Two of the three sonatas she will perform will be solo (unaccompanied) works, and assisting in the remaining sonata will be Timothy Bach, harpsichordist. The obvious question — is Mr. Bach any relation to our J.S. Bach. Answer: Yes!

Two flautists grace our series on different days. Tuesday, Damien Bursill-Hall returns from his duties as principal flautist with the San Diego Symphony and a guest stint with the Bournemouth Symphony, England; to solo in sonatas by Telemann; C.P.E. Bach, the best known of J.S. Bach's sons, and a concerto by Leclair, the French Baroque composer who successfully combined French and Italian styles in the ideal 18th-century way.

Julie MacKenzie, our other flute-player who is an active musician in the San Francisco area, performs with San Francisco Opera, Ballet and numerous Bay Area groups. She is featured in Francois Couperin's Concert Royaux IV, composed by the court composer for the aging "Sun King", Louis XIV, who commanded that concerts be given almost daily in his chambers.

We welcome Lenuta Ciulei-Antanasiu again after her exciting performances of two seasons ago. This Romanian-born violin virtuoso takes time from her busy European touring schedule to return to Carmel as associate concertmaster, and to perform a sonata of J.M. Leclair on the Thursday program, and a sonata for solo violin by Eugene Ysaye on Monday. "How did a composer who died in 1931 find his way onto the Bach Festival program?", you might have every right to ask..., and we hasten to explain that this exciting work was patterned after the solo sonatas for violin by J.S. Bach, two of which will be heard on Wednesday!

Principal cellist Ruth Stienon performs the deeply moving Sonata in F by Johannes Brahms on the Friday concert. Though devoted to the 19th century, this program helps us recall Brahms' debt to the 18th century, and the influence of the Baroque masters.

We again have the pleasure of greeting the fluent, gracious and brilliant pianist from Canada, Janina Fialkowska, who has chosen for her Saturday morning recital works firmly planted in the 19th century, but which look back for inspiration and material. Franz Liszt, the undisputed king of the keyboard in the grand Romantic tradition, transcribed many composer's works, enlarging, coloring and expanding to suit his heroic tastes. We hear his version of a J.S. Bach Prelude and Fugue, a set of variations and fugue by Beethoven, and once again Brahms in a set of variations and fugue on a theme of Handel.

It is no accident that this year's program is rich with local treasure, French and Italian, North German and English Baroque styles, very early examples, a flirtation with the 20th-century by way of J.S. Bach, works of two sons of Bach and composers who influenced or were influenced by the great master. The music director's vision and ultimate sense of balance has given life to the Carmel Bach Festival E. Nakamichi Foundation Recital Series. You are heartily invited to attend some or all of the recitals and will certainly come away refreshed, uplifted and fulfilled with the experience. Great composers, outstanding musicians and beautiful music — see you at the recitals.

Dual pianists perform classics, will debut a new composition

THE KEYBOARD Artist Series will present the duo-piano team, Grant and Winn, in concert at 4 p.m. Sunday, June 18. The performance will take place in Sunset Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel.

Standing ovations and full houses have been the rule at Grant and Winn performances in six years of touring and more than 300 concerts in the United States, Germany and Canada.

Both Cameron Grant and James Winn are natives of Denver and began performing together at the age of 8. By the time they were 14 they had performed with the Denver Symphony under the baton of Antonia Brico. Their European debut was made in 1977 playing the Bartok Concerto with the Orchestra of the SudDeutscher Rundfunk. Grant and Winn have a wide following in Germany and have appeared with numerous orchestras and festivals. They have also recorded a series of television recitals in Germany which are aired throughout Europe.

Their program in Carmel will include Schumann's "Andante and Variations," Mozart's "Sonata in D," K. 448 and Brahms own arrangement of his "Fourth Symphony in E Minor." The most unusual work on the program will be the West Coast Premiere of Eventually the Carousels Begin by composer Robert Helps, which was funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Robert Helps is currently a professor of music in piano at the University of South Florida in Tampa. He has been a recipient of awards in composition from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Guggenheim and many other foundations. He has been professor of piano at the New England Conservatory, the San Francisco Conservatory, Princeton University, Stanford University, the University of California at Berkeley and the Manhattan School of Music.

WORKS BY Schumann, Mozart and Brahms are scheduled to be performed when the duo piano team of Cameron Grant and James Winn appear Sunday, June 18 at Sunset Theater. Reserved seats are $15 and $10. For reservations, contact Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561.

Helps will be artist-in-residence at the San Francisco Conservatory this summer and is planning to be in Carmel in order to attend the West Coast premiere of his newest composition.

Reserved seats for this non-subscription concert are $15 and $10 and may be obtained at Center Stage Ticketing, 467 Alvarado St. in Monterey, or call 649-5561.

For further information, call Keyboard Artist Series at 624-7971.

Barbara Honegger signs 'October Surprise'

Former White House VIP Barbara Honegger will be the guest of the Thunderbird Bookshop to sign her book October Surprise, Saturday, June 17, from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m.

October Surprise asks the question, "did the Reagan-Bush election campaign sabotage President Carter's attempts to free the American hostages in Iran?"

Honegger has documented secret pre-election negotiations between the 1980 Reagan-Bush campaign and agents of the Khomeini regime to delay the release of the 52 U.S. hostages in exchange for a promise of U.S. arms once the Republicans won the White House. October Surprise is supported by the statements of Jimmy Carter, former Iranian President Bani-Sar and Senior White House correspondent Sarah McClendon.

Honegger relates, "In the final month of the presidential race, if Jimmy Carter could negotiate the successful release of these hostages that 'surprise' would have theoretically won him the re-election."

Honegger is currently a private research analyst in California. In 1980, following her experience as a research assistant at the Hoover Institution, Stanford University, she joined the policy research team of the Reagan-Bush campaign. In 1981, she worked in the White House Office of Policy Development as a Research and Policy Analyst.

MUSIC CORNER

By Nathalie Plotkin

Mozart in Monterey presents violin prodigy

IT'S CALLED the "Mozart in Monterey Festival" and it opened last Saturday night in King Hall of the Naval Postgraduate School, but the stars of the evening were the enormously gifted 11-year-old violinist Leila Josefowicz and the composers Lalo and Dvorak.

Instrumental prodigies don't usually impress me. It's true that their technical attainments are unusual, but more often, their musical sensitivities can only reflect those of their trainers. The performers are too young and inexperienced to have developed much musical personality on their own.

However, Leila Josefowicz is musically advanced far beyond her years and her technique is phenomenal as well. Her tone seemed thin at times, but then King Hall is cavernous and the acoustics are notoriously spotty. Only brasses carry dependably. Also, an 11-year-old is still small physically and has not yet developed the musculature needed to consistently create a truly full tone on her instrument.

The Lalo "Symphonie Espagnole" is well known and ear pleasing and when the soloist emerged, planted herself center stage, and in a thoroughly professional and no nonsense manner brimming with poise and assurance, started to perform, it was a completely convincing affair. Except for that somewhat pale tone, there was little indication of the age of the violinist. Her feeling for the familiar strains of the music was in accordance with the printed page and yet it was vital and alive. She has absorbed the romantic style and conveys it with a fine flair, near perfect intonation and distinct technical superiority. At the end the audience rose cheering and as an encore, she played the "Flight of the Bumblebee" by Rimsky-Korsakow brilliantly. It will be interesting to hear this fine young artist 10 years from now to find out if she indeed fulfills her promise.

Conductor Oleg Kovalenko and the orchestra were excellent in accompaniment, carefully balancing their tone to that of the soloist. Their high point came however in a flavorful, stylistically polished rendition of Dvorak's "Czech Suite" Op. 39. Here this chamber-sized symphony orchestra displayed a silken string tone, overall balanced sound and much cohesion and finesse. Kovalenko understands this romantic and colorful music and he elicited a particularly fine performance from his wind players as well as from his smallish string section. The essence of the music was well brought out.

The two Mozart works on the program were not as fortunate. The "Symphony No. 1," K. 16, was written when the composer was 8-years-old. It has rather rudimentary thematic inventions which simply mirror the musical idiom of the time. In performance this can only work well if it is treated very lightly and as it happened it wasn't. In fact, with its heavy footed reiterative scales, the symphony came close to sounding like Mozart's "Musical Joke" K. 522 which he wrote 23 years later to satirize just such writing.

The "Linz" Symphony, No. 36, K. 425 held up somewhat better, though it too received a heavy-handed, rather Beethovenian treatment. The orchestra has not yet achieved the cohesion necessary to create a Mozartean transparency of sound on a consistent basis. Still, the Presto finale did get there. The lightness and sparkle of the breathtaking string runs and the creation of proper scope and balance showed what they are capable of doing. One can hope that as the Festival continues more such fine music making will be heard. The last two concerts of the Festival will be played on June 16th and 17th.

MPC-sponsored tour takes in autumn colors

Monterey Peninsula College has announced a classic 12-day tour that will depart San Francisco on Sept. 30 for the Eastern seaboard and the Canadian Atlantic provinces. Timed to take place while the displays of fall colors are at their height in New Hampshire's White Mountains, the motor tour, including a stay in Nova Scotia, will feature such typically New England treats as a drive along the spectacular Maine Coast to Bar Harbor for a lobster dinner and clam bake.

"This tour combines incredible natural beauty while traveling the path of history," said Sereta Lindsey, tour director and long-time peninsula resident. A graduate of the International Tour Management Institute, Lindsey is also enthusiastic about the group's 6-day Nova Scotia itinerary. It will consist of visits to Halifax, the 'Scotland of America', Cape Breton Island.

For reservations or additional information, contact Heinz Hubler, MPC Community Services Office, 980 Fremont St., Monterey, CA 93940-4704, or call 646-4051.

The Road to Mecca

The Central Coast premiere of Athol Fugard's The Road to Mecca continues its run at Carmel's Cherry Hall.

Many layers of relationship are reflected in this play, one of the few all-white plays created by the South African playwright.

Rosamond Goodrich portrays Miss Helen, an Afrikaaner who seemed to have led a fairly conventional life until her husband died when she was in her 50s. She then became the town eccentric, devoted to her art. Miss Helen finds a young friend and ally in Elsa, played by Sandy Sidener. The third character in Fugard's play is Marius Byleveld, played by Jim Jensen, an old Afrikaaner churchman who feels it is his duty to persuade Miss Helen away from her art and help her back to the church.

Ramie Wikdahl directs The Road to Mecca, a production of Partners in Art.

The Road to Mecca plays at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays until June 25. The June 15 show is a benefit for Amnesty International. The June 25 Sunday matinee will benefit the Alliance on Aging.

Cherry Hall is at Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Tickets are $8 general, $6.50 for senior citizens and students. Group rates are also available.

For reservations, all 649-5561.

Coastal Disturbances

The Studio Theater of The Western Stage has been transformed into a New England private beach "...on Massachusetts' North Shore, somewhere between Marblehead and Gloucester," according to the script of Coastal Disturbances, a romantic comedy by Tina Howe.

Like Howe's Painting Churches, Museum and other plays, Coastal Disturbances is replete with bold, modern-day Pinteresque dialogue that defines the spontaneous combustion between Leo, a lifeguard, and Holly, a photographer, who is running from a ruinous affair.

Jackie Schultz directs the comedy. The cast also features Joyce Lower, Dave Parker, Jean Caille, Tracy Huffman, Jamie Jones, Amy Plaskett, Summer Brown, and John and Regina Hicks.

The play is not recommended for children.

Coastal Disturbances plays in repertory through Sept. 1 at the Western Stage. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Saturday and 7 p.m. Sunday, June 17-18. The theater is at Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave. (off West Alisal Street), Salinas.

For reservations call The Western Stage ticket office at 758-1221 or 375-2111 between 1 and 6 p.m. weekdays or up to curtain time on performance days, or call Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey at 649-5561.

Little Red Riding Hood — The Musical, Sort Of

The Frohman Academy for Musical Theatre Education presents an original musical, Little Red Riding Hood — The Musical — Sort Of, at the New Wharf Theatre in Monterey.

The show is written and directed by Kerry A. Hartjen, and features musical direction by Barney Hulse.

A family-oriented musical romp, the play takes place in a familiar fairy tale forest, but with a new wrinkle.

Curtain is at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 8 p.m. Sundays until June 25. Admission is $5 for children and $10 for adults. The New Wharf Theater is located on Fisherman's Wharf No. 1 in Monterey. For reservations, call 649-3032, or 649-5561.

The Nerd

Larry Shue's comedy The Nerd opens The Western Stage's 15th Summer Season in the Studio Theater at the Performing Arts Center at Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas.

Directed by Chris Graham, The Nerd will play in repertory through Sept. 3.

A young actor from Hollywood, Richard Kuhlman, plays the Nerd, a Vietnam vet who, in battle, saved the life of a fellow soldier, Willum, played by David DiFrancesco. The Nerd, invited to visit his buddy's apartment in Terre Haute, Ind., soon proves himself to be a genius of gaucherie and an unwelcome guest. His host tries to rid his unwanted guest by subjecting the Nerd to culture shock, Terre Haute-style.

Others in the cast include company members Heather McAllister, Suzy Dodd, Frank Davis and Lorraine Fusare.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, June 15-16.

For reservations call The Western Stage ticket office at 758-1221 or 375-2111 between 1 and 6 p.m. weekdays or up to curtain time on performance days, or call Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey at 649-5561.

I Do! I Do!

The GroveMont Theater opens its Cabaret Summer Season and newly expanded cafe theater with the Tom Jones/Harvey Schmidt musical I Do! I Do!.

The production runs at 8 p.m. Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, and 7 p.m. Sundays through July 2. The theater is at 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse) in New Monterey.

I Do! I Do! is directed by Harrison Shields, with musical direction by Barbara Souza, and features Kevin Hanstick and Eleanor Wyld. The production is based on The Four Poster, which follows an ordinary marriage from its beginning in 1890 through 1925.

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA PROHIBITING VEHICULAR PARKING OR STANDING ON CERTAIN STREETS AND REQUIRING THE CLOSURE OF CERTAIN STREETS FROM 8:00 A.M. TO 12 MIDNIGHT ON 4 JULY 1989.

WHEREAS, most people who go to the Carmel Beach for the 4th of July drive vehicles to the Beach; and
WHEREAS, extensive damage has been done to vegetation, trees and other City property on past 4th of July celebrations; and
WHEREAS, illegal fireworks, explosion and smoke devices which are potentially dangerous and life threatening have been set off on past 4th of July celebrations; and
WHEREAS, the number and size of fires set on the Beach may become potentially dangerous; and
WHEREAS, the smoke, noise, danger and debris creates a nuisance making the 4th of July celebration unpleasant for many Beach goers and for private property owners; and
WHEREAS, it is believed that people who would otherwise enjoy spending the 4th of July at the Beach stay away because of the smoke, noise, danger and debris; and
WHEREAS, the City does not have sufficient personnel to adequately police all the problems created by the 4th of July celebration; and
WHEREAS, parking and stopping of vehicles on streets near the Beach on the 4th of July creates traffic congestion, leads to many Vehicle Code and Municipal Code violations and makes it difficult for emergency vehicles to respond to calls on those streets should the need arise; and
WHEREAS, it is believed that the prohibition of parking and stopping of vehicles on certain streets and closing certain streets will ameliorate the above negative impacts and foster positive use of the Beach.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES RESOLVE AS FOLLOWS:

- There shall be no parking or standing of motor vehicles on the public streets named below between 8:00 A.M. and 12:00 Midnight on July 4, 1989, unless otherwise provided by State law. The streets to which this parking and standing prohibition applies are:

Welcome to the Monterey Bay Area...Home of the California Sea Otter

No visit to the Monterey Bay Area is complete without a glimpse of this smallest of marine mammals.

Sea otters spend their lives in nearshore coastal waters where they sleep at the surface, often anchored in a drift of kelp. Groups of otters are called "rafts" because from a distance they look like small logs floating on the sea.

One of the few members of the animal kingdom to use a tool, an otter will place a rock on its chest as an anvil upon which to break open its shellfish prey. Mothers can often be seen sculling along on their backs with a small furry pup aboard.

Unlike seals and whales which have layers of blubber to keep them warm in cold ocean waters, the sea otters rely on their thick fur coats, which they spend many hours grooming every day. An oil spill which could damage their fur, causing the animals to die from exposure, is the greatest threat to their existence.

After the fur trade of the 18th and 19th centuries, sea otters were thought to be extinct in California. But a tiny band survived off the Big Sur Coast. Today otters can be found off San Luis Obispo, Monterey and Santa Cruz counties, yet they still number fewer than 1,400 animals. A "Threatened Species," the California sea otter is protected by state and federal law.

Monterey Concours d'Elegance showcases automotive classics

WHILE the Monterey Concours d'Elegance certainly provides the ideal way to spend a weekend admiring classic autos, there is more at stake than pure amusement.

Wheels of the Monterey Peninsula.

Meals on Wheels is a non-profit organization which receives money from city, county, federal government and the United Way, as well as donations from local public-spirited citizens, churches and organizations.

Put quite simply, Meals on Wheels provides food to those who cannot leave their homes.

"For almost 20 years, Meals on Wheels of the Monterey Peninsula has been preparing and delivering low-cost meals to home-bound citizens," says founder Sally Griffin. "With home-delivered meals, our objectives are to prevent malnutrition or worse, starvation, and to provide an opportunity for the elderly and handicapped to remain in their homes without being institutionalized."

Peninsula cities involved include Marina, Pacific Grove, Monterey, Seaside, Pebble Beach, Carmel and Carmel Valley.

Each day, Monday through Friday, Meals on Wheels delivers more than 300 meals to seniors and handicapped citizens — at a reasonable price.

"For $3.50 a day, we are able to provide a nutritionally balanced diet," says Griffin.

"Most of our customers live on a strictly limited budget or receive welfare benefits."

Menus are planned with no added salt and can also be tailored to fit diabetic restrictions.

"Many people who are convalescing receive home-delivered meals until they are able to care for themselves," says Griffin, adding that daily meals are also served to ambulatory senior citizens at the Sally Judd Griffin Senior Center in Pacific Grove.

Griffin says the three main ingredients going into each meal are "love, warmth and compassion."

Operating with a staff of 12, Meals on Wheels sends 22 volunteer drivers out into the field each day, with meals prepared at the Sally Judd Griffin Center.

Griffin says the operation is always in need of financial and volunteer support.

"The goal of continuing our expansion of this vital service and the increasing costs of food supplies necessitate our urgent need for any and all contributions," says Griffin.

Those interested in more information can call 375-4454.

HARRY HOCKER'S 1923 Packard was named Best of Show at the 1986 Monterey Concours d'Elegance. This year's event will feature equally stringent judging and an auction of classic automobiles. The Monterey Concours d'Elegance arrives Saturday and Sunday, June 17-18, at the Monterey Fairgrounds, and will benefit Meals on Wheels of the Monterey Peninsula.

The ideal leasing plan: No down payment. Low rates. And a new Mercedes-Benz.

THE RATES ARE AMONG THE most competitive Mercedes-Benz has ever offered. In fact, rates are so attractive on the 1989 260E and 300E Sedans, 300CE Coupe and 300TE Wagon, that you could be driving a Mercedes instead of settling for an ordinary luxury car. And there's no down payment.

But, since we can only offer this leasing program for a limited time, we suggest you come in soon. It's the ideal time to lease the ideal car at the ideal rate.*

SAAB'S INNOVATIVE TECHNOLOGY AND ENGINEERING PROWESS START AT AROUND $16,000 AND DON'T STOP UNTIL ABOUT $20 MILLION.

The idea of "shared technology" has a long history at Saab. In fact, the first Saab cars weren't even conceived by automotive engineers, they were designed by aircraft engineers.

All of which helps explain why Saabs have always been known for their innovative approach.

Innovations such as one of the first uses of turbocharging in a standard production car. One of the earliest applications of 16-valve cylinder head technology and front-wheel drive. Dual-diagonal braking. Energy-absorbing, collapsible steering columns. And most recently, the addition of an ABS anti-lock braking system to all Saab 900's.

But to experience this technology in a far more moving fashion we suggest you visit us soon. Where the entire 1989 model line (unfortunately, minus the supersonic Saab JA-37 Viggen) awaits your inspection.

Ridesharing offers helpful suggestions to cut commute costs

Did you know that the average carpooler in Monterey County can save about $500 a year?

"Carpooling is growing in popularity in Monterey County," according to Mike Johnson, Ridesharing Coordinator for the Association of Monterey Bay Area Governments.

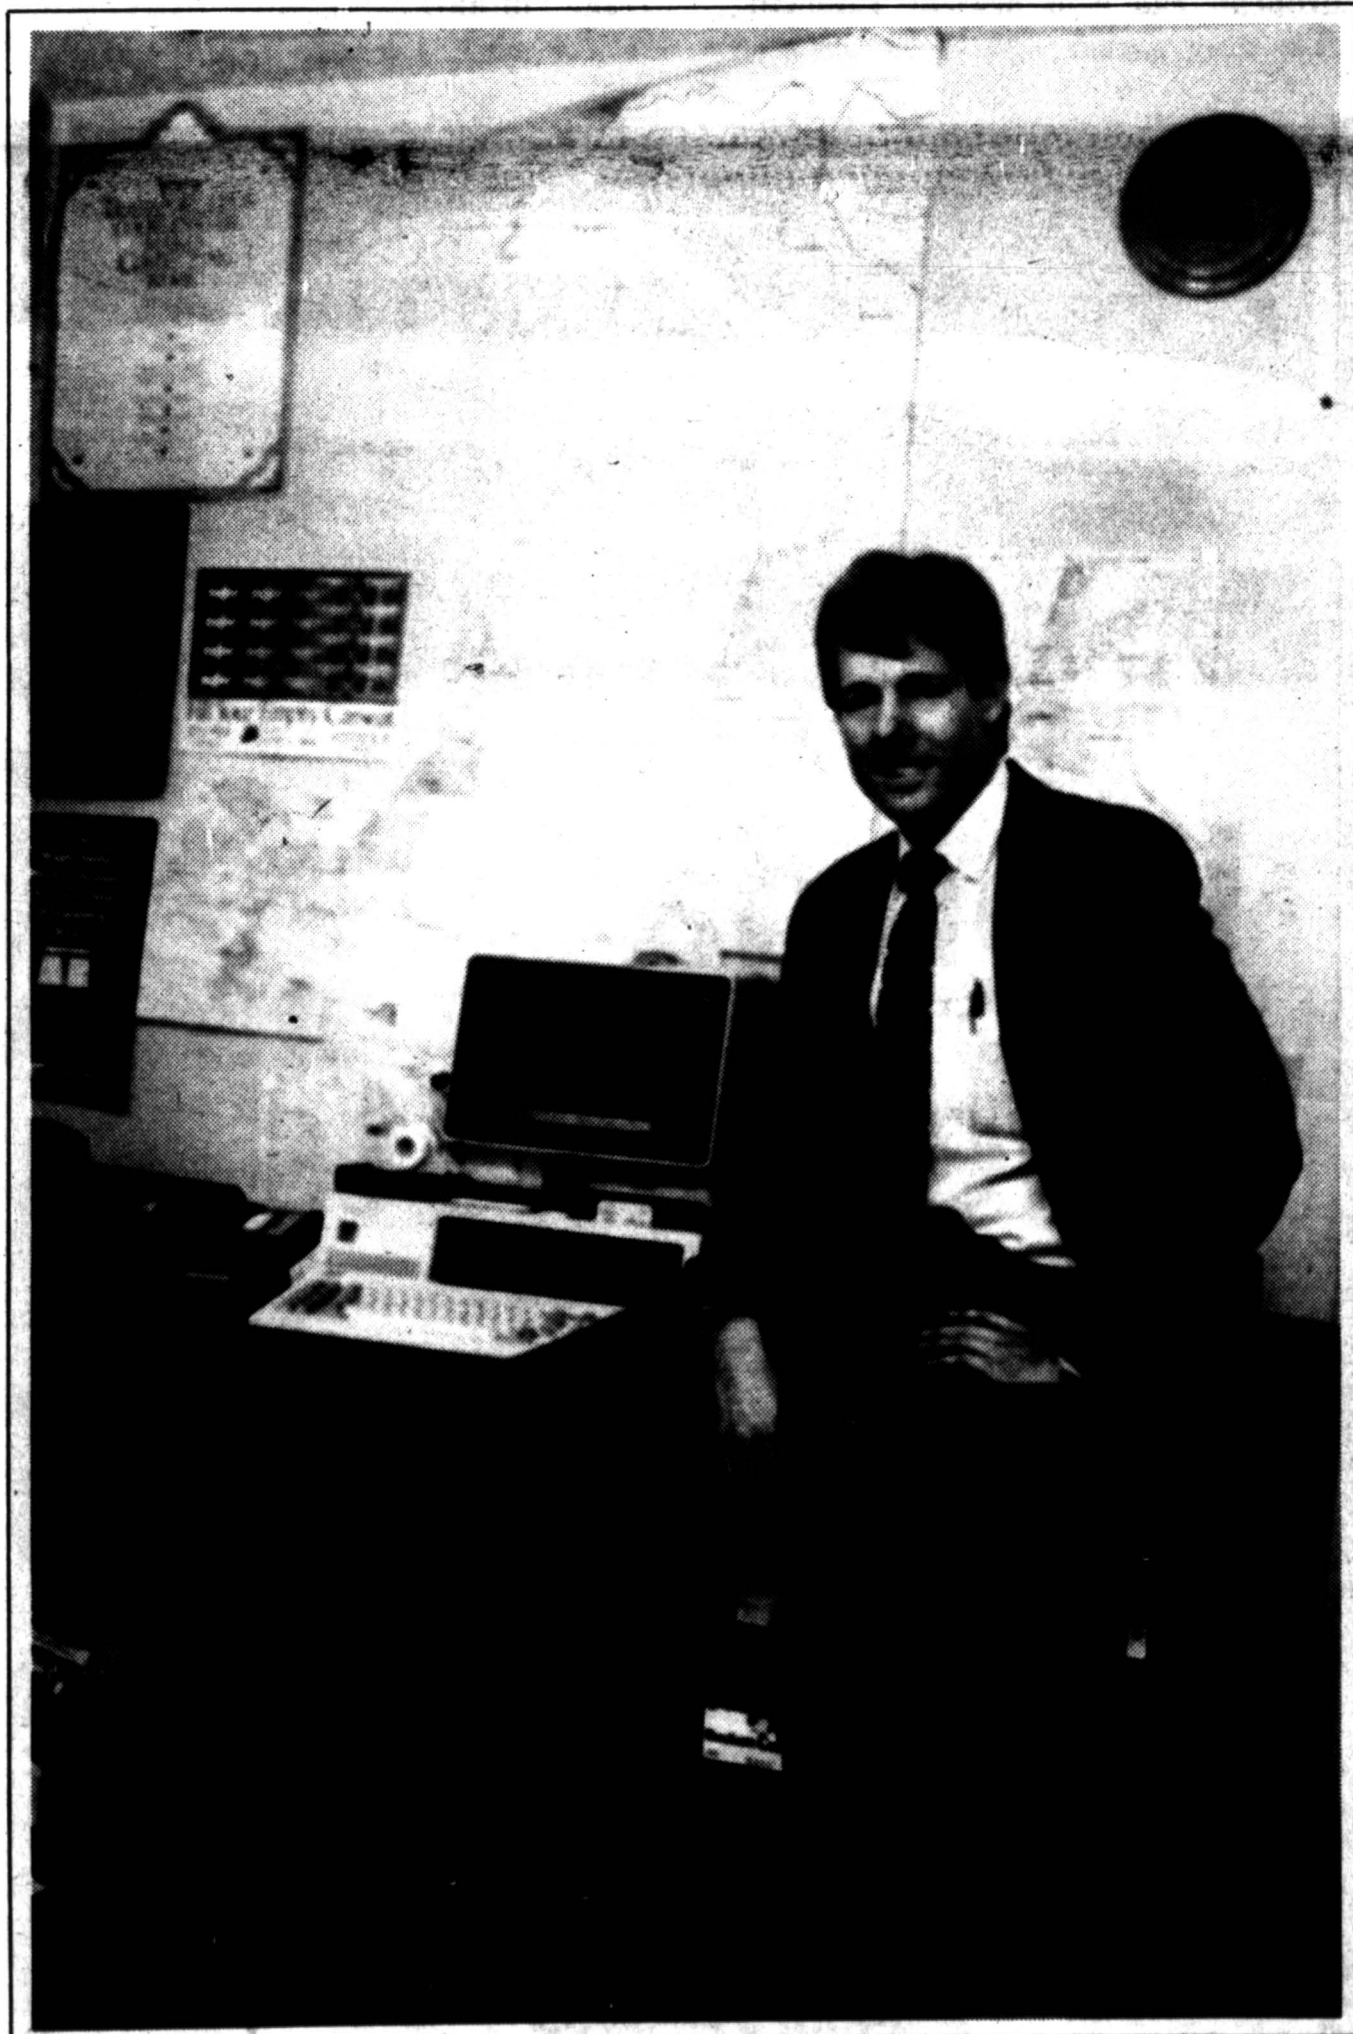

All commuters are eligible to use the "Monterey Ridesharing" service, a free government-funded program that helps people share a ride to work or school. Since the late 1970s, the ridesharing program has helped people save more than $1.5 million in commute costs.

Several employers in the region have worked with Monterey Ridesharing to establish ridesharing programs for their employees. Programs have already been started with the Carmel Unified School District, Pacific Grove Unified School District, and the Pebble Beach Company, to name a few.

Ridesharing is being promoted as a way to help people save money, conserve fuel, reduce traffic congestion, and reduce the pollution created by driving alone. Based on a recent survey, the average employee in Monterey County lives about eight miles from work. In a year the average employee will drive approximately 4,000 miles, use 204 gallons of fuel, and create almost 196 pounds of pollution, according to statewide estimates.

For more information, call the ridesharing program at 373-7958 or 422-POOL.

driving costs. Learn more about carpooling and the county ridesharing program by calling 373-7958 or 422-POOL. (Photograph by Will Robinson).

AN ARENA for instruction in safe driving, the Jim Russell Racing Drivers School takes students around the twisting turns of Laguna Seca Raceway. The school offers three levels of instruction, offering fine points on the safe handling of a car in urban or freeway traffic. For details, call 372-7223. (Photograph by Wei Chang).

Jim Russell Drivers School teaches safety

The word is out that Jim Russell Racing Drivers School is more than a place to learn how to drive a car fast — it's an arena to learn safe driving.

Long known as a venue for those desiring the thrill of driving $20,000 Formula cars around the track at Laguna Seca Raceway, Jim Russell's has now caught on with the corporate world.

Many companies, such as Apple and Seagram's, are using the school as an incentive program for employees.

While others, such as UPS which employ a fleet of trucks or autos, have realized that it pays to teach drivers the fine art of maneuvering a car.

The Jim Russell Racing Drivers School offers three levels of driving, depending on a driver's skill, from beginning to advanced.

Classes meet from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Laguna Seca for the weekend courses and cover all aspects of driving.

For more information call 372-7223.

Silver Star Motors offers quality personal service, expertise

German-born Peter Kracht, owner of Silver Star Motors, Inc. since its beginning 15 years ago, knows the Mercedes Benz like the back of his hand.

"I probably know Mercedes Benz better than most people on the peninsula because I have studied everything about this quality automobile. Many people call me about advice and performance factors," says Kracht, who prides himself in having an immaculate shop and competent, certified technicians.

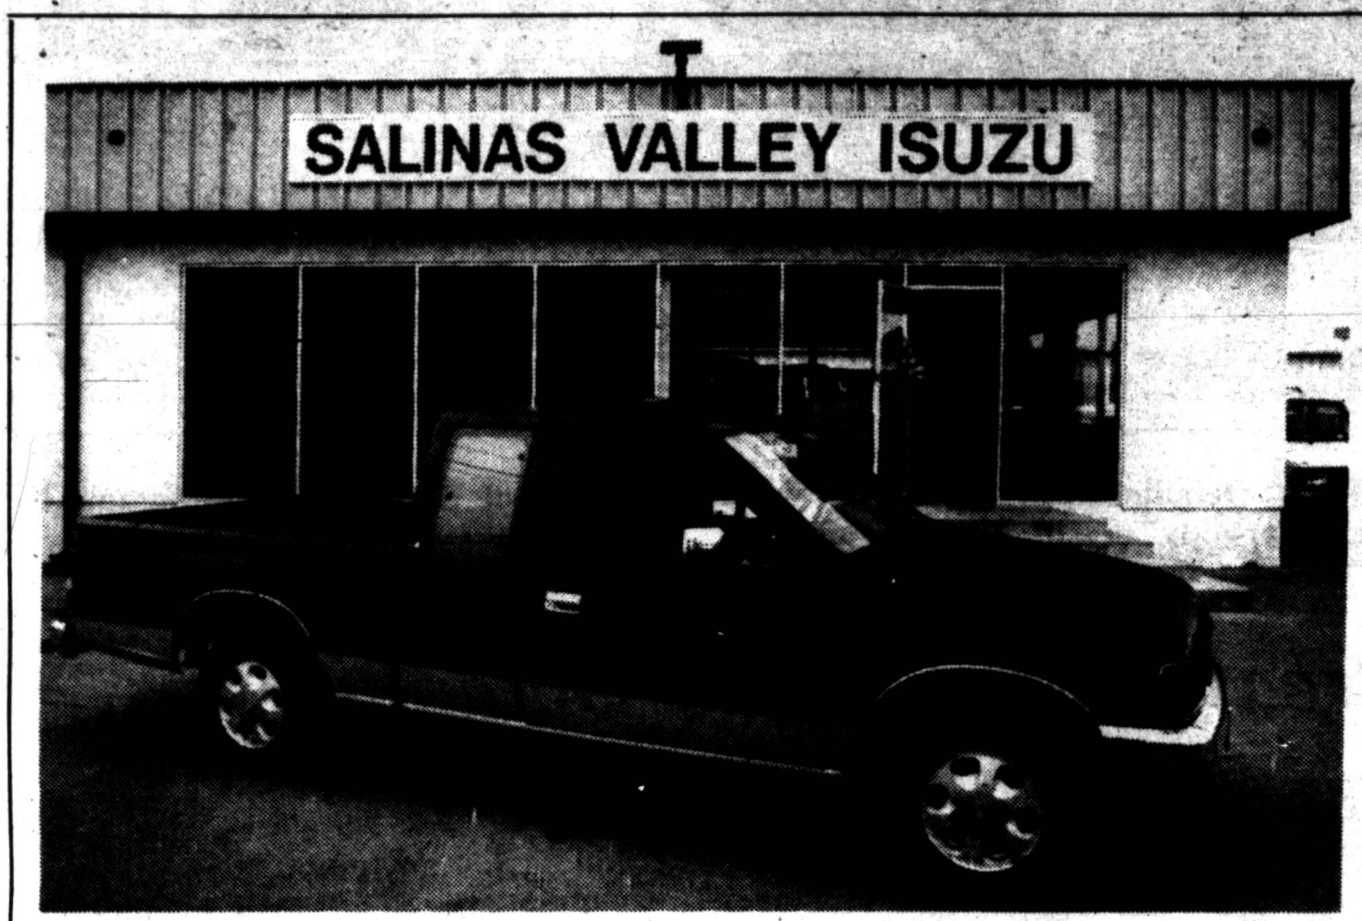

"We do everything including engine overhauls and take great satisfaction in keeping the older models running — dealerships often do not want to work on them," explains Kracht. "You have to sometimes be resourceful to find certain parts — it takes a little ingenuity."

Kracht knows that there are plenty of repair shops out there and he tries to provide the best quality service.

"To be competitive you must go that extra step," he says, adding that cars serviced at Silver Star Motors are washed and vacuumed before being returned and that friendly, personalized service is a top priority.

AUTO GUIDE

Take 'The Audi Advantage' for years of pleasurable driving

Spending time behind the wheel of the 1989 Audi 100, even for business, is a pleasure. Here is a responsive car peppered with the kind of standard features that are classified as extras on most other vehicles. For 1989, Audi engineers have taken the trouble to determine what features drivers want most, and have gone to substantial lengths to please.

"Just enjoy" were the words of Peninsula BMW-Porsche-Audi sales manager Corey Cutler when I picked up the sedan, a seductive shade of "Zermatt Silver."

His advice was easy to follow. Ergonomics, the science of designing machines so they may be most efficiently used by humans, has been redefined by the Audi team.

The engineers have harnessed quite a bit of power here. The five cylinder, 2.3 liter fuel-injected engine reacts with spirit in traffic and in the often race course-like maneuverings on Carmel Hill.

Audi watchers will note that the 1989 100/200 series does not look dramatically different from Audis of the past few years. Numerous refinements have taken place however, subtle — but noticeable.

Unlocking the driver's door deactivates an automatic anti-theft alarm system which sounds if a door, trunk or hood is opened, the radio is disconnected or the ignition is energized.

A great joy in this highly refined Audi is

THREE YEARS of free scheduled maintenance makes up the Audi Advantage, part of the high-performance package supplied with your new Audi by in fact that well-guarded sound system. It completely shoots down the myth that factory-installed sound systems are inferior.

New for '89 is an Audi/Bose sound system that uses four speaker modules acoustically customized to the interiors of the new Audis. Different systems have even been designed for cloth and leather interiors. The sedan I drove also boasted rear headphone outlets and a dual diversity antenna that pulled in radio stations from around the Central Coast without effort. I tested several broadcasts and the tape deck. From Bach to Beatles, the sound was extraordinary.

For statistics junkies, the Audi 100 series features a 141 C.I.D. engine that is catalyst equipped for California drivers. Front wheel drive and power rack and pinion steering proves responsive on the twisting curves of Highway 1 heading south to Big Sur.

Corey Cutler and the rest of the sales team at Peninsula BMW-Porsche-Audi. (Photograph by Wei Chang).

The builders of Audis seem determined that their products receive optimal care. Turn the key and drivers view a readout of the car's "health" status. This 13 function Auto Check System offers a graphic reminder of when it's time to check the brake pads, oil, brake lights, battery water and more.

Following up on the recommended care is simple with the Audi Advantage. This total customer-care package is good for three years and/or 50,000 miles, and it's standard on any new Audi 80, 90, 100 or 200 series vehicle. The Audi Advantage provides FREE

- oil changes
- tune-ups
- wheel alignments
- brake pads
- batteries
- wiper blades
- roadside assistance program
- 10-year rust protection
- tire balancing
- guaranteed re-sale index
- light bulbs
- blown fuses

Obviously, quality counts. The 1989 Audi 100 Series also harbors built-in safety features, some of them obvious, some of them hidden to the eye.

The Audi body contains energy absorbing safety zones, invaluable in case of collision. Five-m.p.h. bumpers front and rear, child safety rear door locks, an anti-lock brake system and automatic tensioners on the seatbelts make travelling a safer proposition.

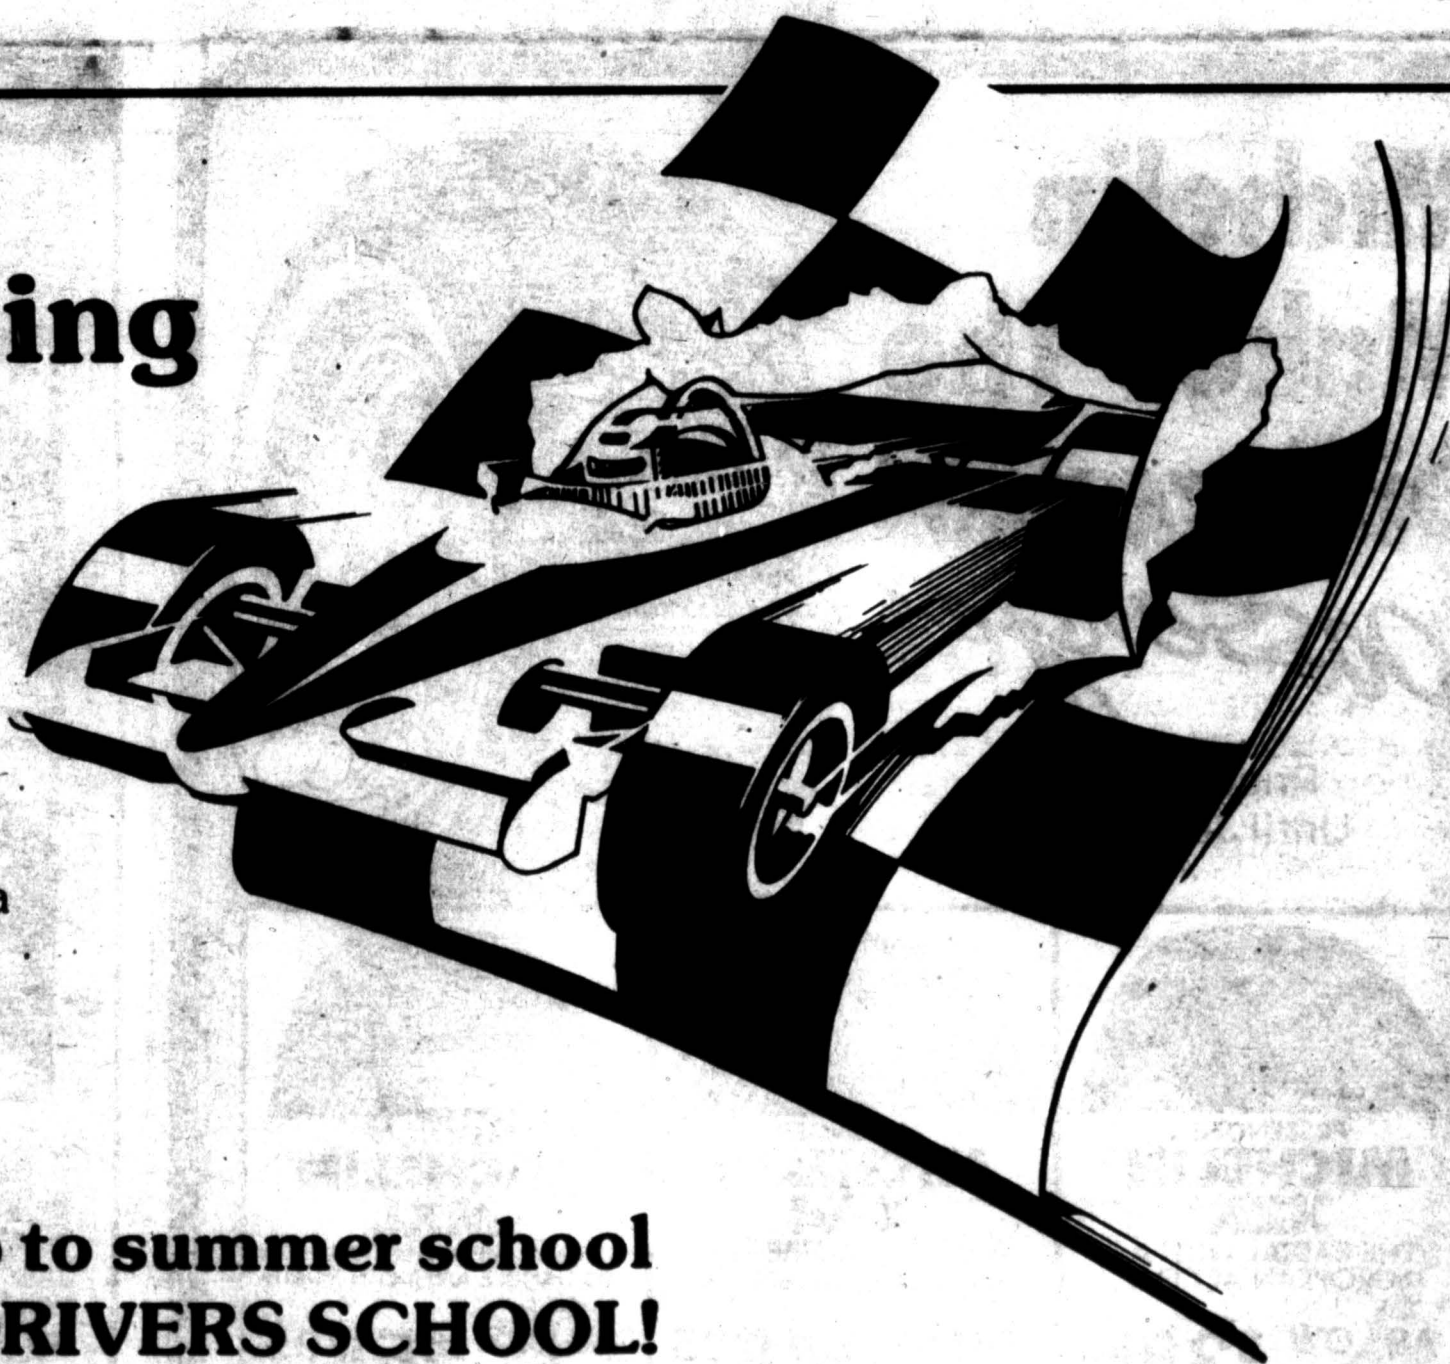

And driver comfort is never overlooked. Recline in comfort, the seats offer four-way power adjustment, and Audi's air conditioning systems deliver on chilly mornings or foggy peninsula afternoons.

My opinion? The Audi 100 drove effortlessly in town and country. Its wealth of high-tech conveniences were close at hand, a genuine safety factor. It looks sharp and feels substantial. And I appreciate the thinking behind the Audi Advantage — freeing owners from maintenance expenses while keeping these precisely tooled machines in top running order. Indeed, Audi has thought of it all for you.

LOOK TO Tiffany's Body Shop for a new paint job or expert matching of paint on damaged vehicles. Tiffany's now boasts a new down-draft oven,

New paint makes vehicles shine at Tiffany's Body Shop

Combining quality and state-of-the-art technology, Tiffany's Body Shop has been providing the finest in craftsmanship for the past seven years.

New to Tiffany's this year is the addition of a second down-draft bake oven, which gives the car an even, high-gloss finish. The oven works by air being forced from the ceiling around the car and out the floor, which alleviates any dirt in the paint.

The second oven also guarantees an even faster turn-around time for customers.

Other high-tech developments at Tiffany's include a computerized light to accurately match paint colors and a special mixing room.

Tiffany's guarantees its color matches and quality to be identical to the factory's. Rental cars are available, as is a facsimile machine to help expedite claim information.

Tiffany's is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and is located at 248 Merced St. in Salinas. Phone 758-5110.

Monterey Radiator boasts huge inventory

Even though the peninsula offers some cool air during the summer months, Monterey still has its Dog Days when tempers flare and radiators boil.

When your radiator heats up and drags your temper with it, stop into Monterey Radiator, serving the area since 1946.

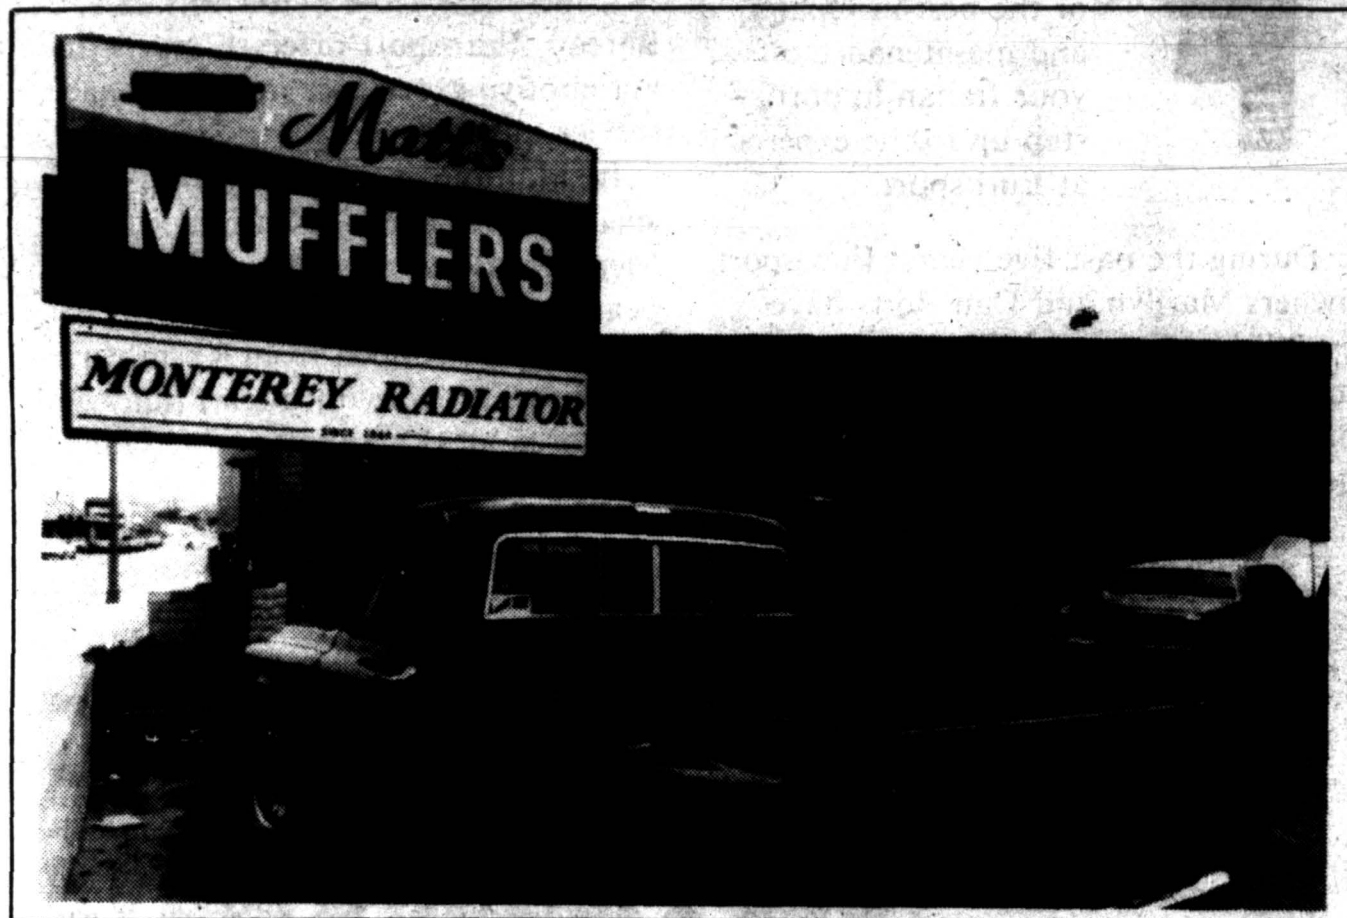

"We've got the largest inventory on the Central Coast," boasts owner Jim Ward, referring to the 350-plus radiators in stock.

"And we can order almost everything."

Offering one-day service, Monterey Radiator services both domestic and import cars.

Also, if it's your air conditioning system that's on the fritz, Monterey Radiator offers some of the finest workmanship around in that department.

Monterey Radiator is open from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays. The store is located at 1624B Del Monte Blvd. in Seaside. Phone 899-4101.

ALLOW THE team at Butts Acura to introduce you to the Acura Integra, the car consistently named one of Car and

Driver's 10 best. The Butts Acura showroom in the Seaside Auto Center is home to the GS, LS and RS Integra models for 1990. "It's a fun car to drive" says Mike Bobay, Butts Acura sales manager. (Photograph by Wei Chang).

Acura Integra effectively tackles peninsula driving conditions

THE 1990 Acura Integra presents the ideal car for travelling peninsula roadways, with its peppy 1.8-litre engine and aerodynamic design.

Where else, but the Monterey Peninsula would you find yourself faced with navigating a freeway at 70 m.p.h. one minute, and the next be faced with the nasty curves of the Big Sur Coast.

By DAVID LELAND

"It's a fun car to drive," says Mike Bobay, Butts Acura sales manager. "You want to go places in it. It has race car quality that anybody can drive."

Indeed, Honda has taken out all the stops in creating this year's masterpiece.

In fact, despite being named one of Car and Driver's 10 Best in 1987 and 1988, Honda opted for an all-new "look" for this year.

"Nothing on this is the same as last year," says Bobay, as he admires one of these gems in his Seaside Auto Center showroom.

Let us repeat, everything is new. That includes a different engine, transmission, suspension, exterior and interior.

Coming in three models GS, LS and RS, the 1990 Integra offers a dazzling array of features that generally are only included in an option package.

These include passive restraint seatbelts, power remote side mirrors, sun roof, rear wiper and AM/FM stereo.

The GS also includes Honda's anti-locking braking system and fat XGT-V Michelin tires.

The remarkable thing is Honda has been able to keep the price reasonable in the 1990 Integra.

For example, the LS lists at $14,000, only $400 over last year's price. "We couldn't believe they held the price the way they did," says Bobay.

Moreover, leading auto leasing companies agree that the Integra holds 50 percent of its value over a five-year lease.

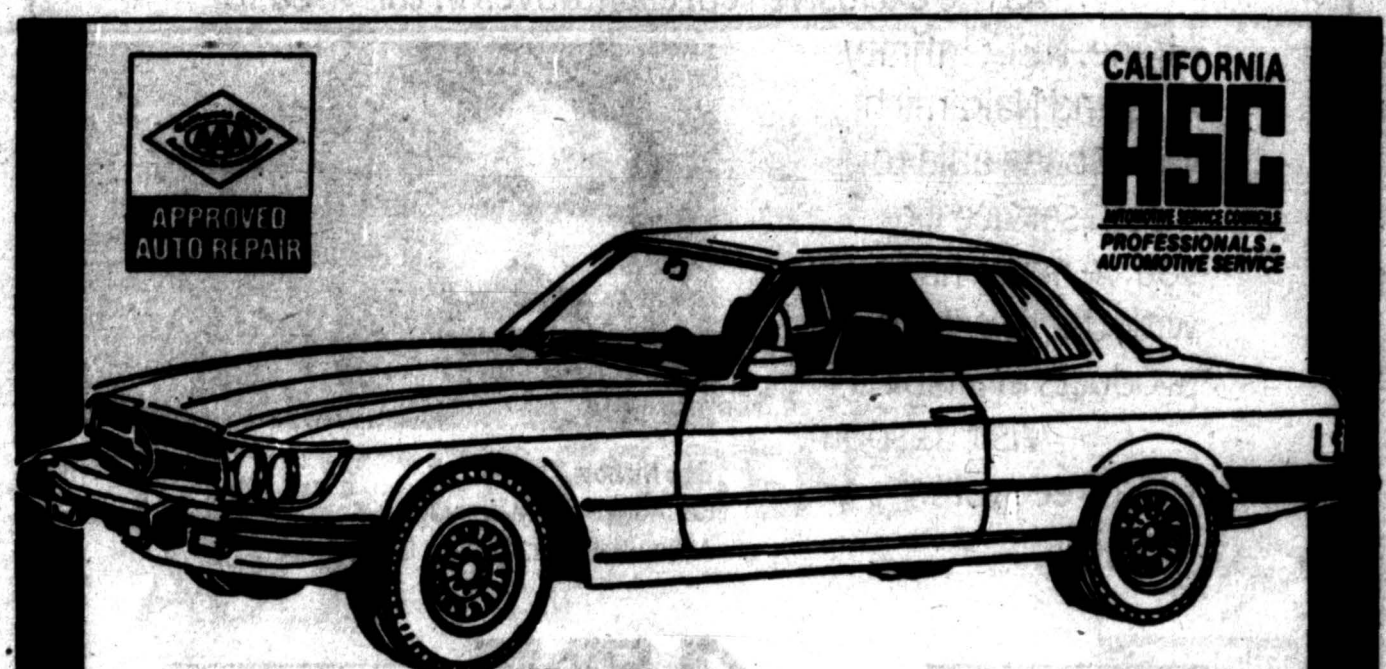

What that means to an owner is if you pay $14,000 for your car in 1990, in 1995 it will still be worth $7,000.

Bobay adds that Butts Acura backs its product to the hilt. "We're very interested in our owners being satisfied after the sale," he says.

He adds that the car is designed in such a way that any work that does need to be performed is quite simple — a mechanic's time is money.
